Completion of Sale of Games to Maple Media for up to A$3.6m in cash

Animoca Brands Corporation Limited (ASX: AB1) (the Company or Animoca Brands) is pleased to announce that it has completed the sale of 13 games (the Sale) to Maple Media LLC. (Maple Media). Details of the sale were first provided in the Company's ASX announcement on 31 July 2017.

Key points

- Animoca Brands has successfully completed the sale of 13 games to Maple Media for up to A$3.6m in cash
- The Company will receive of ~A$1.4m as partial consideration of the Sale in August 2017.
- Further deferred payments of up to a maximum of ~A$2.2m, payable in 2018 and 2019, subject to revenue hurdles
- Animoca Brands retains an option to sell an additional two apps to Maple Media

Strategic rationale

The Sale is a positive outcome resulting from the Company's recent focus on leveraging its portfolio of valuable intellectual property, while also managing its cost base and cash flows effectively. The Sale demonstrates the Company's ability to successfully monetise its intellectual property without incurring additional development and marketing costs.

The 13 games sold comprise the non-core components of the Company's TicBits subsidiary. Animoca remains focused on developing mid-core/hard-core games such as Crazy Kings, while the titles sold include casual gaming titles such as Sudoku and Mahjong; titles that represent a better strategic fit for Maple Media.
