We expect to complete stage one of establishing the factory by late 2019 or early 2020, contingent on planning approvals.

Market Trends

Jatenergy's Neurio products, distributed into pharmacies across Australia and China, are in such high demand that we are confident the factory will become cash positive 12 months after production commences.

Current global trading conditions support development of the project. In particular, increased trade barriers among some major trading countries on dairy products, including infant formulas, bode well for the manufacturing initiative.

Demand from the growing middle class in China and other Asian countries is fuelled by a new concept known in China as the "big health" lifestyle. This means people consume health supplements, quality dairy products with nutritional additives and other healthy foods.

The board of Jatenergy believes that a TGA and CNCA approved manufacturer meets this market trend and is in line with the market's new consumption habits.
