Total Brain (ASX: TTB), a neuroscience-based mental health and fitness platform, today announced that, through channel partner introductions, it will service three new U.S. organizations with its easy-to-use app to help up to 70,000 (approximately) employees measure and optimize brain capacities, improve productivity and screen for risk of mental conditions.

These new Total Brain customers seek multiple benefits for their organizations: reduction of mental health cost, improvement of employee productivity and engagement and establishment of a new workforce management paradigm.

"We're thrilled to be adding new employers and participants, as our channel partners are becoming increasingly confident in the benefits of Total Brain after the completion of our product upgrade. For the employees of those organizations, Total Brain will provide self-awareness, screening, monitoring and custom training that improves their brain capacities no matter where they find themselves on the mental health continuum." said CEO of Total Brain Louis Gagnon.

Further details about the most recent quarters sales and corporate activities will be available in the Quarterly Company Update published at the end of July and the accompanying Investor conference call.
