Management Comment

Gateway's Managing Director, Mr Peter Langworthy, said the outstanding response to the capital raising from existing and new investors reflected the significant potential of the Gidgee Gold Project at an extremely opportune time in the Australian gold sector.

"With Australian Dollar gold prices touching record highs in recent weeks, there could not be a better time to be exploring and developing an Australian gold project in a Tier-1 location," Mr Langworthy said.

"The proceeds of this capital raising will put the Company in an extremely strong position, with the balance sheet strength to undertake a sustained, multi-pronged exploration program that we expect to deliver significant news-flow over the coming weeks and months.

“Importantly, we already have resource estimates underway for our two cornerstone deposits at Whistler and Montague, which we expect to finalise later this quarter – providing a strong foundation for the continued growth of this project.

“Planned drilling programs will commence immediately and will begin testing the significant number of outstanding targets we have generated, including immediate extensions of the Whistler and Montague deposits, the broader potential of the Montague Granodiorite and a number of emerging oxide opportunities on our tenements.

“I would like to thank existing and new investors for their support and participation in this milestone capital raising, which really sets Gateway Mining up for success.”

The Company requests that its securities are reinstated to official quotation with immediate effect.
