Marathon Petroleum awards Worley a contract for a renewable diesel refinery

Marathon Petroleum Company LP (Marathon) has awarded Worley a contract to provide detailed engineering services for the conversion of the Dickinson refinery, located in North Dakota, to a renewable diesel refinery.

Under the contract, Worley will provide engineering services and procure equipment and materials for the refinery. The refinery is being converted from a crude oil feedstock to an organically derived oil feedstock, making it a 100% renewable diesel operation. The services will be executed by Worley's offices in the USA and supported by our global business. Worley had provided engineering services during the early concept phase.

"We are pleased to continue working with Marathon and we look forward to helping Marathon meet its renewable fuel goals. This is another example of how Worley is helping its customers meet the challenges of the global energy transition," said Andrew Wood, Chief Executive Officer of Worley.

Authorised for release by Nuala O'Leary, Group Company Secretary.
