SciDev Inventory Mitigates Coronavirus Risk

SciDev Ltd (ASX:SDV, SciDev or the Company) is closely monitoring coronavirus risk as part of the Company's normal, risk assessment processes. To date, no adverse supply chain implications are being seen nor expected.

The Company has an active programme of maintaining inventory on hand (or transit) to mitigate supply chain risk. The Company has enough redundancy in its supply chain to continue delivery into manufacturing and customer orders.

ProSol Australia, acquired by SciDev in late 2019, held strong inventory, as a result, all existing SciDev customers are well serviced with a significant buffer of inventory in the event of any stock delays out of China.

Highland Fluid Technology has many existing supply points in North America and Europe and the Company is confident of being able to mitigate any medium-term supply chain risk ex-China.

SciDev is well positioned to mitigate supply challenges if they are to arise from the current coronavirus situation. The Company reiterates that no impacts to its supply chain are being seen at present and SciDev does not expect any adverse implications arising.
