MARKET COMMENTARY

The first month of 2020 was dominated by the bushfires and the coronavirus, both of which the Manager is monitoring closely. While the bushfires did not appear to have a material impact on credit spreads, the economic impact remains uncertain. Damage and destruction of homes is not expected to have a material impact on residential mortgage backed securities (RMBS) income due to home insurance, bank and government support initiatives. RMBS products are also protected from events such as the bushfires through geographic diversification of loans. In addition, insurers have reinsurance cover in place to reduce the impact of major events. The longer-term effects on the property market, agriculture and tourism industries remain an area to watch.

The coronavirus outbreak presents another significant risk factor. The economic impact for the March quarter was projected to be significant with the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) downgrading GDP growth projections. While the longer-term outlook remains uncertain, historical precedents set during the SARS epidemic suggests a rapid recovery if the crisis is short-lived. In January, Australian dollar (AUD) credit remained relatively resilient to the influence of coronavirus concerns. Spreads tightened through early January and held their gains as the outbreak began to dominate headlines. Conversely, US dollar (USD) credit spreads widened significantly in the last two weeks of the month. Despite the resilience of AUD spreads, the iTraxx Australia index widened towards the end of the month to 52bps. Widening of spreads reflects increased demand for credit risk insurance due to uncertainty associated with the virus.

Primary market activity was mixed to start the year. Domestic bank issuance was robust while corporate activity was muted. Expectations remain for significant major bank activity through 2020, presenting potential relative value opportunities for the portfolio.

TRUST COMMENTARY

The portfolio continued to collect a healthy running yield through January. Income return was predominantly associated with portfolio exposure to non-financial corporates, RMBS, domestic banks and non-bank financials.

Domestic credit spreads tightened throughout January on aggregate and contributed positively to performance. This was more pronounced at longer tenors, commensurate with the continued hunt for yield. Consequently, portfolio spread return was led by exposure to long-dated corporates and offshore banks, including issues from Lonsdale Finance (Port of Melbourne), Qantas and Downer Group Finance.

The Manager continues to evaluate relative value opportunities in new issues and secondary markets. The Trust increased its exposure to tier 2 subordinated major bank debt via NAB's 12 year non call 7 issue from November 2019. In addition, the Manager took advantage of the active securitisation market at the beginning of the year, investing in the $300M Liberty Financial Automotive ABS deal.

The Trust's cash allocation was consolidated during January as future opportunities are evaluated. The Portfolio Manager maintained its disciplined process of investing in good quality corporate issues with an attractive running yield.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The Trust will hold a diversified and actively managed portfolio of domestic and global credit and fixed income assets. Typical investments will include corporate bonds, floating rate notes, securitised assets and private debt (for example, corporate loans). Exposure to corporate loans may be gained indirectly through the Perpetual Loan Fund. The Trust will typically be invested in 50 to 100 assets. Derivatives may be used as part of the Trust's Investment Strategy.*

TARGET RETURN

The Trust has a target total return of RBA Cash Rate plus 3.25% p.a. (net of fees) through the economic cycle. This is a target only and may not be achieved.

The Trust is managed by Perpetual Investment Management Limited. The Manager has one of the most experienced, proven and stable credit and fixed income teams in the Australian fixed income market. The Manager and the Responsible Entity are wholly owned subsidiaries of Perpetual Limited.
