Market Overview

After hitting an all-time high of 7197 on the 20th February, the Australian market fell more than 10% over the next 6 trading days to finish 7.7% lower over the month, in line with global market falls as concerns around the coronavirus intensified as more cases were detected outside China increasing the risk of a global pandemic. This risk-off sentiment saw Australia's 10-year bond yield fall 13bps during the month to hit an all-time low of 0.82% and the Australian dollar followed suit falling 3.6% during the month. The top -performing sectors were Healthcare, Utilities and Real Estate which are more defensive in nature but still fell over 4%. The Energy, Information Technology and Materials sectors fell over 10%. By the end of February, whilst the number of coronavirus cases reported was increasing outside China, the number of cases reported inside China had significantly reduced and a large proportion of China's workforce outside Wuhan went back to work. As the Chinese government launches more stimulus efforts to get the economy back on its feet, we expect this to result in greater demand for Australian iron ore, benefiting our large miners.

The largest positive contributors to the Company's investments during the month were an overweight position in Northern Star as well as underweight positions in Oil Search, Wisetech, Origin Energy and Rio Tinto. However, overweight positions in Santos, Beach Petroleum, BHP and Woodside underperformed detracting from relative performance.

The Company's investments remain actively positioned to seek superior income and franking whilst also being able to allocate to companies that are expected to provide solid capital returns.
