Ethical Investing in Focus

Despite the almost 100% focus on COVID-19, another large bank in Australia, Westpac, announced that they would be exiting all support for lending to the thermal coal industry by 2030. This build on prior commitments from other lenders and Insurers who are increasingly worried about the financial viability of lending to those investments.

As a reminder, your Fund does not buy shares in any fossil fuel producing company

Portfolio review

The Fund rose 1.8% in April, underperforming global markets which rose 3.5% in AUD terms. Global equities rose 10.6% in USD terms, as the market had the strongest rally in 32 years, bouncing back on hopes that the worst of COVID-19 had passed quicker than first feared. The strong rise in the AUD dampened returns. Nearly all the underperformance came from the Fund carrying cash, which helped in March, but was a headwind in April.

The USA market performed best (+13%) with Europe (+5.7%) and Japan (+5.4%) lagging. Despite the oil price briefly trading below $0, Energy was the best performing sector (+15.7%) as hopes of reduced supply and better demand combined. Banks (+5.7%) was the laggard as fears of higher loan losses weighed on the sector.

Ping An Healthcare was the largest positive contributor over the month. The company has been leading the development of online medical advice in China, and with COVID-19, the Chinese government has given the "stamp of approval" for the company. With the stock up over 50% in a month, we have taken profit and will look to add on pullbacks.

The largest detractor for the month was Service Corp, our funeral home provider. The company pulled guidance and provided downbeat commentary, which was disappointing as it was expected that demand for services should be higher in the current environment.

Outlook

Whilst the Fund was of the view that the market bounce could continue, and was prepared for it, the largest bounce in 30 plus years still came as some surprise. "Unprecedented" is becoming "precedented" in both directions it seems.

Cash weightings had been increased as we sold into the bounce, but markets have now gone to levels where we had set our "walk away" points. As such cash weightings finished the month lower than where it averaged for the month. The Fund has some call options which will further lower cash levels if markets rise a lot further, but still provide us with a cash buffer in falls.

Past Performance is not an indication of future performance.

The Fund finished the month with 9.3% cash and 1.1% of AUM in call options.

Our base case remains that markets re-test lows, but time is not a friend here, because with each passing week, the world moves closer to returning to normal and markets rarely sell off on "old news" – bad data isn't going to surprise anyone. Markets appear to be moving to price a reflationary outcome (better growth and falling unemployment). Time will tell if this is too optimistic.

All things considered, we see the market stuck in a large range – making new highs seems highly unlikely, but, for now, new lows look increasingly unlikely. In this environment we are looking to add back stock risk and focus efforts there.
