About Volpara Health Technologies Limited (ASX: VHT)

VHT is a MedTech SaaS company founded in 2009 on research originally conducted at Oxford University. VHT's clinical functions for screening clinics provide feedback on breast density, compression, dose, and quality, while its enterprise-wide practice software management helps with productivity, compliance, reimbursement, and patient tracking.

VHT's technology and services have been used by customers and/or research projects in 38 countries and are supported by numerous patents, trademarks, and regulatory clearances, including FDA clearance and CE marking. Since its listing on the ASX in April 2016, VHT has raised A$132 million, including A$37 million in April/May 2020. VHT is based in Wellington, New Zealand.

At the end of June 2019, VHT acquired MRS Systems, Inc., a company based in Seattle, WA. MRS provides mammography reporting systems to over 1,600 breast clinics and hospitals, and to VHT a much stronger US presence, experienced local headquarters, and accelerated sales through cross-selling opportunities.
