

10 AUGUST 2020CIMIC'S UGL SECURES $200M IN MAINTENANCE
CONTRACTS IN THE MINING SECTOR

UGL, a CIMIC Group company, has secured several construction and maintenance contracts in the mining sector with a combined value of more than $200 million.

The contracts will be executed over a multi-year period, providing mechanical, electrical, instrumentation and access services for maintenance, shutdowns and sustaining capital projects.

The contracts include:

- Civil, structural, mechanical, piping, electrical, communications and instrumentation work for Rio Tinto at the Mesa J PP2 Rescreening Plant in Western Australia. The project, which will employ approximately 160 people, will commence immediately and continue until September 2021.
- A contract extension for scheduled major shutdown services at Rio Tinto's Alumina Refinery.
- Installation of a run of mine crusher and materials handling circuit for Roy Hill. Comprising supply, structural, mechanical, electrical and instrumentation works, the project will employ approximately 100 people.
- Appointment to BHP's engineering services panel to provide civil, structural, mechanical, piping, electrical, instrumentation and rail services for shutdowns and sustaining capital projects across BHP's Western Australian iron ore mine site and port operations, and rail facilities in the Pilbara.

CIMIC Group Chief Executive Officer Juan Santamaria said: "These contracts are demonstration of UGL's 30 years of experience in building partnerships with leading mining companies and delivering solid performance of maintenance and shutdown services."

UGL Managing Director Jason Spears said: "These new contracts and contract extensions highlight UGL's capabilities in the mining sector and expand on our strong relationships with our clients. We look forward to carrying out these contracts in a safe and reliable manner."
