Market update

Globally, April saw a flow of positive economic data despite a spike in coronavirus case numbers in parts of Europe and India and a slowdown of the vaccine roll-out amid concerns about its side effects. US consumer confidence rose to a 14-month high, with fiscal stimulus supporting the reopening of businesses, in turn boosting hiring demand. In Europe, demand for exports to the US increased, which accounts for 3% of Eurozone gross domestic product (GDP). A positive US earnings season has so far highlighted the strength of the post-pandemic reopening, with 86% of S&P 500 Index companies exceeding consensus earnings expectations. US President Biden's USD2 trillion infrastructure package, which aims to increase income, reduce carbon emissions and decrease economic inequality, dominated news headlines during the month.

In Australia, the S&P/ASX 200 Index experienced its best month since November 2020, rising 3.5%, and the Australian labour market experienced its fastest post-recession recovery in history, evidenced by the hours worked by the labour force exceeding pre-pandemic levels. While snap lockdowns continued in April, the positive economic data supports the view that the population will largely return to normal behaviours in time, including dining out, travelling and enjoying live entertainment.

High conviction holding

Uniti Group (ASX: UWL) is QVG Capital's largest holding. Uniti Group is a telecommunications company with the majority of its earnings coming from wholesaling internet via its fibre networks. QVG Capital is attracted to Uniti Group due to its defensive characteristics, experienced management and high organic growth.

Market outlook

Should interest rates stay at current levels, the equity market looks fairly valued and QVG Capital anticipates the equity market to deliver 6% to 8% per annum over the next five years. QVG Capital's portfolio is populated with stocks that have revenue growth of three times the market average with a forward earnings multiple in line with the market.
