Pacific Hydro awards services contracts for wind farms

Pacific Hydro, through its subsidiary Energy Pacific (Vic) Pty Ltd, has awarded Worley two operations and maintenance services contracts for a portfolio of its wind farms in Victoria, Australia.

Under the contracts, Worley will provide full asset management, operations and maintenance services across a fleet of 196 wind turbines and the associated balance of plant with a total generating capacity of 360 MW.

The term of the contract supporting the Yaloak South, Crowlands and Portland Wind Energy Project wind farms is ten years and the term of the contract supporting the Yambuk, Codrington and Challicum Hills wind farms is five years. The services will be executed by Worley's regional Victoria team. Worley will remotely monitor operation of all the wind turbines.

"We are pleased that Pacific Hydro has chosen to continue its long-term relationship with Worley and extend our role in supporting the generation of renewable energy on these wind farms. As a global company headquartered in Australia, we are helping our customers adapt to the world's changing energy needs through bringing Worley's global expertise and capability in renewable energy," said Chris Ashton, Chief Executive Officer of Worley.

Authorized for release by Nuala O'Leary, Group Company Secretary.
