Market commentary

Global infrastructure stocks delivered a positive return in March, gaining +3.8% in A$ terms to outperform broader global equity markets (MSCI World Index down -0.7%) for the fourth consecutive month. Gains were widespread with all infrastructure subsectors generating positive returns. Communications (towers and data centres) and utilities were among the best performers. Midstream energy stocks continued to rally, albeit at a slower pace, amid high energy commodity prices amplified by the ongoing war in Ukraine. Listed airports were comparatively weak (+3.2%) in response to concerns that rising fuel prices could dampen travel volumes.

Argo Infrastructure's share price gained a remarkable +8.5% over the month, ahead of both international and local shares.
