SILK launches Australian-first day procedure centres in Tasmania

Adelaide, South Australia: 26 July 2022 – SILK Laser Australia Limited (ASX:SLA) ("SILK") is pleased to announce that it has been named the first Aesthetic Treatment provider licensed as a day procedure centre under Section 9 of the Tasmanian Government Health Service Establishments Act 2006.

The National Safety and Quality Primary and Community Healthcare Standards (Primary and Community Healthcare Standards) aim to protect the public from harm and improve the quality of health care delivered.

SILK Laser is the first operator in the state - and the country - to meet these new requirements and be awarded a licence, launching as a day procedure centre in a retail setting. The process to obtain this licence took 18 months, with SILK working side-by-side with Tasmanian Health.

Commenting on the news, SILK co-founder and CEO Martin Perleman said: "Tasmania is leading the way, cleaning up Australia's injectables industry with a raft of regulatory changes that better control how and where injectables are administered. The SILK team has worked closely with Tasmanian Health, meeting the required standards within the Act and the regulations. We are extremely proud of this achievement and the best practice standards we provide our clients across our network."

"These new regulations raise standards right across the board - we have implemented a medical advisory committee, and have heightened clinical safety protocols and adverse reaction protocols. Off the back of the botox boom, SILK fully supports regulations like these - the first in Australia - that will make the injectables industry safer, cleaner and more accountable."
