Calix Managing Director and CEO, Phil Hodgson, said:

“Calix is delighted to complete an equity raising to accelerate commercialisation of Calix's technology for industrial decarbonisation.

“Our strategy of fast-tracking commercialisation through a combination of joint ventures, licensing and spin-out strategies has enabled multiple applications of our core technology to be developed simultaneously, each targeted at a specific and significant market need. The funds raised provide Calix with the balance sheet strength to accelerate this development and further realise the potential of Calix's core technology platform.

"We are grateful to our shareholders, old and new, for their support and belief in Calix's mission."
