Market commentary

Together with broader global equities, global infrastructure stocks declined in February, albeit modestly, falling -0.5% in A$ terms. However, the asset class outperformed Australian equities which fell -2.5%.

Most infrastructure subsectors posted negative returns, although there were bright spots among the passenger transport-related stocks which were supported by China's reopening and improved global growth. Of note, Airports gained +1.5% led by Mexican and European operators. Our holdings in Mexico-based Grupo Aeroportuario del Pacifico and Spanish AENA, contributed to the portfolio's outperformance relative to the benchmark index.

Pleasingly, Argo Infrastructure's share price outperformed local equities by +3.3% in February.
