Sky farewells Chief Financial Officer Tom Gordon

Sky Chief Executive Sophie Moloney advises that Tom Gordon has resigned as the company's CFO to pursue career opportunities elsewhere, and will leave Sky in May 2023.

Sophie says: "I want to personally thank Tom for all his hard work and the contribution that he has made during his time with us. Tom is a highly-regarded and well-liked member of our Executive Team from both an internal and external perspective, and we wish him well in his future endeavours."

Deloitte Partner Andrew Hirst will re-join Sky as Interim CFO while recruitment is undertaken for a new CFO.

"Andrew is highly familiar with Sky, having stepped in as Interim CFO previously and having also advised Sky on a number of matters in recent years. I am grateful that he is able to re-join the team in this interim capacity, and I look forward to his contribution."
