Dear Fellow Shareholder,

In May, the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) lifted its cash rate to 3.85%, while the US came to an agreement to suspend the US debt ceiling for two years. Australian equities fell during the month with the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index down 2.6%. The Dow Jones Industrial Average Index fell 3.5% in local terms while the weaker Australian dollar led to the MSCI World Index (AUD) closing up 1.1% for the month.

Update on our franking credits campaign

I would like to thank our shareholders and supporters who have been vocal throughout this process.

On Friday 2 June 2023 the Senate Economics Committee, chaired by Labor Senator Jess Walsh, completed its review of the proposed legislative changes to the Australian franking system and handed down their findings. They acknowledge Schedule 5: Franked distributions funded by capital raisings needs clarification, which is an important victory for us all. Unfortunately, they did not grasp that Schedule 4: Off-market share buy-backs also has unintended consequences and needs amendments and redrafting. You can read the final Senate Inquiry report here.

We will continue to engage with Senators to raise awareness of the unintended consequences as we need this legislation to be redrafted or stopped in the Senate.

Read my Opinion piece (Op Ed) in The Australian and articles in The Australian Financial Review and The Australian on the Senate's findings. You can also read Chief Financial Officer Jesse Hamilton's Op Ed in The Australian Financial Review on the tax revenue at risk and the disadvantage to small companies the proposed changes will have.

W | A | M Research

The most compelling undervalued growth opportunities in the Australian market.

The WAM Research (ASX: WAX) investment portfolio decreased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index. Significant contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included enterprise software company TechnologyOne (ASX: TNE) and digital lottery company Jumbo Interactive (ASX: JIN).

TechnologyOne provides software-as-a-service (SaaS) enterprise resource planning to over 1,300 leading corporations, government agencies, local councils and universities. During the month, the company announced its FY2023 half year results, posting a record first-half profit with annual recurring revenue up 40%. TechnologyOne achieved revenue of $200 million for the half year ended 31 March 2023, up 18%, and announced a 4.62 cents per share dividend, an increase of 10% compared to the prior year, underpinned by the growth in new customers and the conversion of existing customers to SaaS contracts. The company noted that it expects strong growth for the remainder of FY2023, with guidance of 10% to 15% growth in net profit before tax compared to the corresponding prior period. TechnologyOne also provided guidance of approximately 40% growth in its annual recurring revenue, achieved through the growth of its SaaS services. We remain confident in the company's ability to weather the sustained inflation and increasing interest rates, and look forward to seeing it execute its long-term investments in research and development.

Jumbo Interactive offers lottery software platform and management expertise to the government and charity lottery sectors. In May, the company provided an updated FY2023 outlook, noting that subdued jackpot activity and cost inflation was weighing on its short-term earnings outlook. In response, the company is taking a disciplined approach to cost management and significantly increasing its price from late May 2023. We believe that the demand for Jumbo Interactive's core product offering is relatively inelastic, whereby changes in prices won't drive a material change in customer behaviour, and add to revenue growth and margins into FY2024. We remain optimistic on Jumbo Interactive's growth prospects into FY2024 as price increases flow through and jackpot activity recovers.

History of fully franked dividends

The Company's ability to generate franking credits is dependent upon the payment of tax on profits and the quantum of fully franked dividends received from investee companies. Currently, the franking account balance of WAM Research is able to frank a portion of the final dividend, assuming the final dividend is also 5.0 cents per share. If no additional franking is generated, there is a possibility of future dividends being partially franked or unfranked.

The most compelling undervalued growth opportunities in the Australian market.

The WAM Capital (ASX: WAM) investment portfolio decreased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index. Significant contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included information technology company Life360 (ASX: 360) and enterprise software company TechnologyOne (ASX: TNE).

Based in San Francisco, Life360's core app offering provides family safety services including location sharing and driver safety reporting. In May, Life360 reported its CY2023 first quarter results, posting a 34% year-on-year increase in its revenue to USD68.1 million. The company achieved its guidance of adjusted earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) a quarter early, driven by strong momentum in subscription revenue and cost efficiencies. Life360 expects to deliver subscription revenue growth in excess of 50% year-on-year in 2023, as well as positive adjusted EBITDA and operating cash flow of USD5 million to USD10 million. We are excited by the progress Life360 has achieved against its strategic objectives over the past year and the business' path to profitability in 2023 driven by its strong revenue momentum.

TechnologyOne provides software-as-a-service (SaaS) enterprise resource planning to over 1,300 leading corporations, government agencies, local councils and universities. During the month, the company announced its FY2023 half year results, posting a record first-half profit with annual recurring revenue up 40%. Actively investing in the highest quality Australian companies.

The WAM Leaders (ASX: WLE) investment portfolio decreased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index. Contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included GrainCorp (ASX: GNC) and Fletcher Building (ASX: FBU).

GrainCorp is a leading Australian agribusiness and processing company, with integrated operations across four continents. Three consecutive La Nina wet weather patterns spanning late 2020 to early 2023 delivered the three largest East Coast Australia winter crops on record, supporting agricultural production around 50% higher than the 20-year average. With a 50% chance of an El Nino dry weather pattern forming later in 2023, we appear to have passed the peak of the cycle and GrainCorp's earnings are expected to decline significantly from these highs in the years ahead. We observed that the share price had declined significantly and we built a position ahead of its result as we thought sentiment was worse than reality. The company announced its FY2023 half year results in May, upgrading its full year earnings guidance and through-the-cycle earnings projection. The share price reacted accordingly and having reached our target valuation, we have since exited our position.

Fletcher Building is a leading manufacturer and supplier of building products and construction materials across Australia and New Zealand. It is also a major residential developer and constructor in the New Zealand market. Approximately half of their revenue is derived through the residential market, with the balance split between commercial and infrastructure industries. With mortgage rates increasing and the housing market slowing, Fletcher Building has been impacted by both lower earnings and downbeat investor sentiment. We built a position in Fletcher Building as we believe the cash rate cycle is nearing its peak, the business has a very robust balance sheet and the valuation is at multi-year lows. The next update from Fletcher Building will be in late June at its investor day.

The world's most compelling undervalued growth companies.

The WAM Global (ASX: WGB) investment portfolio increased during the month. Contributors to investment portfolio performance included testing, inspection and certification (TIC) company Applus Services (BME: APPS) and US government consulting firm Booz Allen Hamilton (NYSE: BAH).

Applus Services (Applus) is a TIC company listed in Spain and provides design, engineering and testing services for the energy and industry, laboratories and automotive sectors. We believe the market continues to undervalue the portfolio evolution Applus has undertaken away from its oil and gas customers towards higher value businesses in renewables, power and infrastructure which are aligned to global long term investment trends including clean energy transition, electrification and connectivity. This was validated in May, when the share price increased following confirmation that there was private equity interest in its business. We believe that Applus is trading at a material valuation discount to its peers despite being on track in achieving its strategic roadmap for mid-to-high single digit average organic growth and improvement in operating margins.

Booz Allen Hamilton (Booz Allen) is a leading provider of consulting services to the US Department of Defence, intelligence community and civilian agencies. Booz Allen is benefitting from its strong position in cyber security and artificial intelligence as the US government priorities increasingly shift towards those areas. In May, Booz Allen reported its fourth quarter results which were above market expectations, including 9% revenue growth and 17% adjusted earnings per share (EPS) growth. Booz Allen also provided a better than expected revenue growth target of 7% to 11% for the next fiscal year. This guidance came before the resolution of the debt ceiling negotiations in the US and shortly following this, a debt ceiling deal was signed into law by US President Biden. We believe this resolution, which includes continued growth in budgets for the Department of Defence, provides upside to Booz Allen's earnings guidance. We expect Booz Allen will exceed market expectations and see this as a catalyst for further share price performance over coming quarters.

W | A | M Microcap

The most exciting undervalued growth opportunities in the Australian micro-cap market.

The WAM Microcap (ASX: WMI) investment portfolio decreased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index. Contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included online furniture and homeware retailer Temple & Webster Group (ASX: TPW) and corporate travel and expense management solution provider Serko (ASX: SKO).

Temple & Webster Group is an online furniture and homeware retailer running a drop-shipping model, whereby products are sent directly to customers by suppliers, enabling faster delivery times and reducing the need to hold inventory. In May, the company provided a trading update, stating that it has returned to year-on-year growth following a prolonged period where operations were impacted by the coronavirus pandemic. Temple & Webster Group reiterated its full-year guidance in the range of 3% to 5% earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) and noted its cash levels remain at approximately $100 million with no debt. We are pleased to see the company's investment in artificial intelligence to enhance its customers' shopping experience and boost competitiveness, and believe this will be an advantage to the business by gaining market share.

Serko delivers travel and expense solutions in more than 35 countries around the world. During the month, Serko announced its full-year results ending 31 March 2023, with total revenue up 154% year-on-year to $48 million, exceeding its revised guidance range of $42 million to $47 million. Its online bookings increased by 93% and recorded a 381% increase in occupied rooms via Booking.com for Business. Serko's results were reflective of its focus on cost discipline, investments to improve scale and growth as well as the strong recovery in business travel in Australia and New Zealand. We remain optimistic that it can achieve its guidance of $63 million to $70 million revenue in FY2024, and it's aspiration of $100 million revenue in FY2025, as business travel improves and their partnership with Booking.com for Business continues to grow.

Unique opportunities beyond traditional assets

The WAM Alternative Assets (ASX: WMA) investment portfolio increased during the month. This was primarily driven by the underlying performance of its private debt and private equity investments.

WAM Alternative Assets believes the active management approach of private equity is well suited to the current economic environment. Private equity investors focus on working with management teams to optimise operations and improve efficiencies in businesses, delivering strong outcomes for investors. We expect to see increased deal flow in private equity in Australia this year as valuations are becoming more attractive to buyers. Additionally, private equity investors have raised a significant amount of capital over the past few years, which they are now in a good position to invest.

Recently, WAM Alternative Assets made a co-investment, alongside its investment partner Fortitude Investment Partners, in a new private equity growth opportunity, The Energy Network (TEN). TEN supplies specialised tooling and equipment for the construction and maintenance of overhead and underground electrical networks in Australia and New Zealand. This investment aligns with one of our long-term investment themes, climate change.

TEN is well positioned to benefit from increasing investment into transmission grids and distribution networks as Australia transitions to renewable energy as part of various international commitments. The Australian Energy Market Operator's (AEMO) Integrated Systems Plan (ISP) for 2023 to 2028, which is a comprehensive roadmap for the efficient development of the National Electricity Market (NEM), has developed two primary pathways to deliver on a net zero target. The Progressive Change scenario achieves emission reduction targets gradually by 2050 and the Step Change scenario is a more rapid, consumer-led, transformation of the energy sector. Both pathways will require significant capital investment as Australia transitions away from coal power generation to renewables and makes updates to its existing aging infrastructure. AEMO's ISP found that the optimal transmission development pathway would require approximately 10,000km of additional transmission lines by 2050, with much of this being required in the first decade. This represents a build rate of more than four times the recent historical rate through to 2029, and a significant tailwind to TEN's growth potential.

Discounted asset opportunities.

The WAM Strategic Value (ASX: WAR) investment portfolio increased during the month. The investment portfolio's allocation to globally focused listed investment companies (LICs) and listed investment trusts (LITs) contributed to positive investment portfolio performance in May, as well as the corporate restructure with Ellerston Asian Investments (ASX: EAI) as the consolidation in the LIC sector continued.

Global equities began the calendar year strongly with equity markets reporting gains in each of the first five months of 2023. Since January 2023, the MSCI AC World Index (AUD) has increased 12.6% with the S&P 500 Index increasing 8.9%, in local terms. The WAM Strategic Value investment portfolio has a 50.9% allocation to LICs and LITs that invest in global companies. Despite positive share price performance from Penganga International Equities (ASX: PIA), WAM Global (ASX: WGB), Magellan Global Fund (ASX: MGF) and VGI Partners Global Investments (ASX: VG1), share price discounts to net tangible assets (NTA) attributable to our global LIC and LIT holdings have increased to levels briefly experienced during the onset of the coronavirus pandemic.

The widening share price discounts to NTA across the LIC and LIT sector has led to continued corporate activity as company boards look to implement strategies to provide investors with the opportunity to exit their investment at close to market value. During the month, Ellerston Asian Investments was suspended from trading pending the completion of a restructure to merge Ellerston Asian Investments with Ellerston Asia Growth Fund, and convert to a dual-structure exchange traded managed fund (ETMF). The restructure provides Ellerston Asian Investments' shareholders with a clear pathway to redeem their investments closer to pre-tax NTA or continue to remain invested in the strategy within the new vehicle.

Look-through NTA before tax

The Australian Accounting standards require the Company's pre-tax NTA to be calculated based on the market price (or share price) of the underlying investment portfolio. The Company's look-through pre-tax NTA is an estimation of the Company's pre-tax NTA calculated using the estimated or most recently available pre-tax NTA of the underlying investment portfolio as at the end of the month where available. The look-through pre-tax NTA of the Company is indicative only and provides an estimate for investors of the value of the underlying investment portfolio, assuming the share price discount to NTA of the underlying discounted asset opportunities are closed.

About WAM Strategic Value

WAM Strategic Value will take advantage of market mispricing opportunities, including securities trading at discounts to assets or net tangible assets, corporate transactions and dividend yield arbitrages. WAM Strategic Value aims to deliver strong risk-adjusted returns derived from a portfolio primarily composed of discounted asset opportunities selected using the proven market-driven investment process we have developed over more than two decades.

The WAM Active (ASX: WAA) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Information technology company Life360 (ASX: 360) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while automotive retail group Eagers Automotive (ASX: APE) was a detractor.

Based in San Francisco, Life360's core app offering provides family safety services including location sharing and driver safety reporting. In May, Life360 reported its CY2023 first quarter results, posting a 34% year-on-year increase in its revenue to USD68.1 million. The company achieved its guidance of adjusted earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) a quarter early, driven by strong momentum in subscription revenue and cost efficiencies. Life360 expects to deliver subscription revenue growth in excess of 50% year-on-year in 2023, as well as positive adjusted EBITDA and operating cash flow of USD5 million to USD10 million. We are excited by the progress Life360 has achieved against its strategic objectives over the past year and the business' path to profitability in 2023 driven by its strong revenue momentum.

Eagers Automotive represents a diversified portfolio of automotive brands across Australia and New Zealand. The company owns and operates motor vehicle dealerships, sells new and used vehicles and facilitates automotive services. During the month, Eagers Automotive provided a business update in its Annual General Meeting, noting a number of challenges the company faced in the operating environment including port congestion, bio-security issues and the cost pressures that exist across the broader economy. While the business update subsequently caused the share price to decline, we were pleased to see that the company continued to experience strong demand for new and used vehicles and deliver a record underlying operating profit before tax of $405.2 million and a record full-year underlying return on sales of 4.7% in 2022. Eagers Automotive reiterated its forecast growth in revenue of approximately $1 billion for 2023, driven by acquisitions of car dealership groups in the ACT and South Australia, and momentum from new electric car brands BYD and Cupra. We continue to see upside in the value of the company and remain confident in its ability to execute its 2023 forecast.
