In addition to ASX announcements, Identitii is also uploading additional information to the InvestorHub, such as explanatory videos and interviews, industry activity and coverage, plus other useful resources to help current and prospective investors remain fully informed about the Company and its progress.

Commenting on the InvestorHub, John Rayment, CEO of Identitii said: "Identitii is addressing a significant global opportunity to help companies securely collect and share sensitive information, with government regulators and counterparties. We are building a strong brand in the industry, where people have a deep understanding of the problems we're solving. We joined the InvestorHub community to share this with investors, making it easier to learn more about the opportunity and the progress we're making, and to communicate with our board and executive team."
