Approaching the one-year mark of international sales, RocketBoots witnessed building momentum, signing multiple UK customers, completing integration with customer's point-of-sale systems and have trial site installations set to begin shortly after the financial year end. During the trials, return on investment evaluations typically commence within 6 – 8 weeks of installation and the results drive opportunities to negotiate scaled rollout contracts for multiple years.

On the technology side of the business, new machine learning R&D was completed for our workforce optimisation software which means we can now deliver into retail groceries, this increases our addressable market globally and has already resulted in pipeline growth and our first trial win (UK).

In summary, the past year transformed RocketBoots' pipeline diversity and critical mass, enabling negotiations in multiple regions through direct and channel-based sales strategies. Global management consulting firms recognised the value of RocketBoots' service-centric workforce software for in person service locations operations, yielding opportunities and installations that promised increased software adoption and revenue.
