In September, the net performance (change in NTA plus distribution) per unit was 1.33%. This brings returns for the third quarter of 2023 to 5.01% and year-to-date returns of 14.68%. PGG continues to provide its distribution target of RBA +4% per annum.

The Underlying Fund outperformed the Global Loan index² by 40bps over the month, 144bps over the quarter and 445bps since the start of the year. The monthly outperformance was driven by robust credit selection both in syndicated and direct debt. Lower-rated names continued to be the notable performance contributors, with Triple-C loans leading the way followed by Single-B's. The Underlying Fund's overweight allocation to these rating buckets had a positive impact to relative performance. In terms of sectors, one of the highest contributors were Industrials, Health Care and Consumer Discretionary. The Underlying Fund's average price now stands at 95.2 and the current yield at 11.4%.

During the month, the Underlying Fund continued to increase its direct debt allocation by investing in a leading manufacturer of rotationally molded poly and welded steel bulk store; a human resource consulting services firm; an independent insurance brokerage firm; and a provider of infrastructure business. The direct debt exposure of the Underlying Fund increased significantly over the last two months to 23.6% as at 30 September 2023.

The Underlying Fund participated in several add-ons over the month: a global provider of testing, inspection and certification services which benefits from a cash generative business model in a sector with high barriers to entry, and robust historical performance; a leading global infrastructure software platform that generate stable cash flows, strong gross and net retention rates and ability to benefit from favorable demand tailwinds for infrastructure modernization software; a provider of business to business services to the travel industry; and one of the biggest franchise in the restaurant industry.

Elsewhere, the Underlying Fund sold a bond from a global healthcare company to benefit from recent good trading levels. The Underlying Fund also sold several first lien loans to reduce the downside risk of the Portfolio: a global media technology company and a leading provider of end-to-end advertising workflow solution for brands, agencies and publishers.

At the same time, the Underlying Fund benefitted from a full repayment of two syndicated loans: a multi-brand network providing superior private school education from infant care through high school, and a provider of cybersecurity solution for enterprise and government customers worldwide.

The Portfolio continues to be fully deployed; Software remains the largest sector at 13%, followed by Health Care Providers & Services at 9%.

The Underlying Fund has not experienced any default in September and all Portfolio companies continue to pay their interest accordingly.

Market activity

The US and European syndicated loan markets posted another robust performance and outperformed high yield bonds and equities for the second month in a row. The lack of new-issue acquisition activity combined with high CLO demand and improving economic sentiment drove secondary prices higher. Lower rated loans continued to outperform in September, in line with the trend seen since the beginning of the year.

The US loan market returned to 0.85% over the month, bringing the Q3 2023 performance to 3.12%, the highest quarter experienced based on total return since Q4 2020. Year-to-date returns now stands at 8.86%, recording the highest number since the global financial crisis. The average secondary trading price increased by 20bps over the month, and 132bps over the quarter to finish at 95.56. In Europe, the monthly return was 1.10%, for a quarterly performance of 3.59%. European loans continued to be on track for its best annual performance since 2009 as well, with a year-to-date return of 12.24% so far. The average secondary trading price now stands at 96.39 (+37bps over the month and +197bps over the quarter).

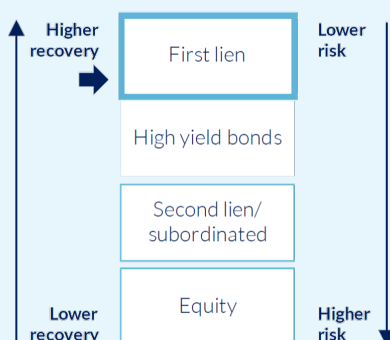

In the new-issue market, September volume increased to the highest level since April 2022, bringing much-needed net supply amid notable exits from the broadly syndicated market in favour of direct lending. In addition, companies took advantage of the accommodating market conditions to extend maturities and/or reduce interest burden.
