ABOUT FORESTA GROUP HOLDINGS

Foresta is positioning itself to become a leading global supplier of natural and renewable pine chemicals and biomass pellets. It has developed a proprietary process to naturally extract pine chemicals by employing the tree's own solvent chemicals to extract rosin and terpenes. These products are commonly used in industrial manufacturing and are a key input to everyday end products. These products include adhesives, gum, inks, paint, car tyres and perfume.

Quarterly Activities Report and Appendix 4C For Quarter Ending 31 December 2023

Highlights:

- Foresta raises $2.333M to accelerate the torrefied “black” pellets and pine chemical manufacturing facility project in Rotorua New Zealand.
- Offtake agreement with Tailored Energy Resources converts to binding ten (10) year supply agreement
- Key forest supply opportunities for the initial plant have been identified and are in the final stages of supply contractual negotiations.

Foresta raises $2.333M to accelerate the biomass manufacturing project.

In October Foresta successfully raised $2.33M from new and existing investors. The total amount of the Placement was increased to accommodate for the additional demand. Funds raised under the Placement will be applied to accelerate the torrefied “black” pellets and pine chemical manufacturing facility project in Rotorua New Zealand.

Offtake agreement converts to binding ten (10) year supply agreement.

In August 2023, Foresta NZ successfully executed a Term Sheet with Tailored Energy Resources Limited (TERL), marking a pivotal step towards establishing a mutually beneficial offtake agreement.

We are pleased to announce the formalisation of this commitment through the signing of a binding ten-year Supply Agreement between Foresta NZ and TERL. Under this agreement, Foresta NZ will supply up to 65,000 tonnes annually of torrefied wood pellets, in alignment with the production capacity of our inaugural manufacturing facility (Stage 1a) situated in Rotorua, New Zealand.

Foresta's torrefied wood pellets will serve as a sustainable and low-carbon alternative to coal for TERL customers, enabling a seamless transition while leveraging existing boiler infrastructure. This collaboration gains heightened significance considering New Zealand's targeted phasing out of coal boilers by 2037.

Our torrefied “black” wood pellets contribute to over a 95% reduction in carbon emissions compared to coal, aligning with New Zealand's ambitious goal of achieving net zero carbon emissions by 2050. Furthermore, this positive environmental impact extends beyond emissions reduction to include minimized shipping emissions, reinforcing the sustainability ethos integral to our operations.

The Supply Agreement, with a projected value of NZD $229 million over its ten-year term, underscores the substantial economic benefits derived from this collaboration. Importantly, the agreement exhibits flexibility, accommodating additional supply quantities in tandem with Foresta's ongoing growth and expansion of production capacity.

This strategic collaboration with TERL not only reflects our commitment to sustainable practices but also positions Foresta NZ as a key contributor to New Zealand's renewable energy landscape. We look forward to updating our stakeholders on the progress and outcomes of this significant partnership in subsequent reports.

The preferred contractor has been selected for civil works and buildings.

The Key equipment suppliers. Request for Tenders have been issued for 4 work packages, with tenders closing from mid-January to mid-February 2024.

Key Forest supply opportunities for the initial plant have been identified and are in the final stages of supply contractual negotiations.

Research and development update

Our forestry team has been in the forests researching pioneering techniques for stump extraction, a facet often overlooked in the industry due to its perceived challenges. Stumps, cumbersome to extract and transport, pose both health and safety risks and environmental concerns when left behind. At Foresta, we recognise the value in stumps owing to their high resin content.

Traditionally, stump extraction involved the laborious process of cutting the log first and then prying the stump out of the ground. However, we are pleased to share our latest breakthrough, showcased in this video on our LinkedIn channel. Our experiments reveal that logs and stumps can now be simultaneously extracted, presenting a significant time and resource-saving advancement in our operational processes.

This success is partly attributed to the unique composition of the soil prevalent in our operations—mostly sand and clay. This distinctive soil composition enhances the effectiveness of our simultaneous extraction method.

Addressing concerns about the transport of logs and stumps in unconventional shapes, our research demonstrates that, despite their unique forms, they can be transported using existing equipment and trucks. This ensures a seamless integration into our forestry operations, eliminating logistical challenges associated with non-traditional shapes.

Simultaneously, Foresta has undertaken initiatives to enhance our resin extraction program. We are identifying the correct usage of dosing tools and exploring battery and petrol application options to optimize tree enhancement for resin production. This dual focus on efficiency and sustainability positions Foresta as a leader in responsible forestry practices.

Our commitment to building key relationships is evident in our engagements with forest owners and supplier management personnel. Through meetings, tours, and trials of extraction and enhancement processes, we have established that our discussed objectives are not only feasible but also align with our commitment to sustainable supply chain implementation.
