Comments from CEO

"In Q3 FY24, we continued our growth of both top and bottom lines, JAT has made a good profit return of approximately $2m, thanks to a strong market performance in China."

"The Supreme Court of NSW has published the final judgment of the Sunnya litigation as announced to ASX on 24 April 2024. The board considers the overall results to be largely successful and favorable to JAT and Sunnya. Sunnya is now confirmed as the rightful owner of the Neuroio and Guamis brands in Australia and NZ and is able to lawfully export to China and preventing other parties from interfering with its business.. "

"Senior management is confident the business will be profitable for the rest of the financial year of FY24 and is planning for further improvements in FY25."

-From CEO, Sunny Liang

Trading highlights

- ANMA has ordered a new sachet production line. This upgrade on the sachet line machine will significantly improve the production capacity. The new production is expected as early as in Q4 FY24. It will bring new productivity and efficiency to ANMA operations in FY25. ANMA has recorded three consecutive months of profit making around $700K in the March quarter (unaudited).
- Jatcop has ranged Neurio products back to Cross Border E-commerce channels including Flagship stores and POP stores in China. The new retail channels in both Hong Kong and Vietnam are established.
- As announced on 24 April 2024, the Supreme Court of NSW published a 400 page judgement in the various proceedings involving the long running dispute between JAT and its subsidiary Sunnya Pty Ltd (“Sunnya”) on the one hand, and its former directors Mr Yinghan He and Ms Yanxia Lu (“He and Lu”), their related parties (including Australia and Chinese companies and their daughter Ms Yaqing He), and Sunnya’s former New Zealand suppliers the Supermega group of companies controlled by Mr Easter Wu (“Wu parties”).
- The Board of JAT considers the overall results of the Australian case to be largely successful and a vindication of its pursuit of the defendants, with some adverse findings which it is now considering, along with formulating its claim for appropriate damages and costs. Critically, Sunnya is now confirmed as the rightful owner of the Neurio and Guamis brands in Australia and NZ and is able to lawfully export to China and preventing other parties from interfering with its business. This judgement will also assist to build Sunnya’s case before the Chinese trademarks bureau for the nullification of GABT’s Chinese Neurio trademarks.
- This judgement also comes as part of a wave of legal successes against the improper conduct of He and Lu and their related parties as two Chinese Courts have in January 2024 and April 2024 successively rejected GABT’s attempt to shut down Sunnya’s sale channels through two distributors in China, as previously advised to the market.

Business outlook

- We reiterate that our expectation for a global slow economic recovery is unchanged. Given the stagnant supply and demand growth across developing markets, a moderate risk of recession remains. However, the current consumer demand for our products and growth of the lactoferrin product in China are at a good level.
