Commenting on the March 2024 Quarter,
Beonic CEO, Billy Tucker said:

“Beonic has an excellent set of products and solutions, with strong global awareness and a blue chip client base. However, we have been inhibited from maximising our potential with the company carrying a higher cost base relative to performance and a lack of focus on key markets and verticals. Since commencing as CEO in November, I am pleased to inform our investors that our transformation plan is progressing well and is forecast to be completed by the end of Q1 FY25.

At the centre of this strategy is a renewed focus on high growth, high-margin verticals by focusing on distribution via quality channel partners to provide scale. In Q3, we implemented our client-first product strategy ensuring both client facing and engineering resources are directed towards industry leading technology and data solutions for airports and retail.

In terms of reducing our cost base, the company has removed or replaced several leadership roles, opting for a flatter structure. These changes, which will result in significant cost savings, intend to right-size the business relative to current business performance and set the foundation for scale in FY25 and beyond.

With an industry leading position in Airports and Retail, a growing global partner network and a truly global presence, Beonic is repositioning the company for significant growth in FY25 and beyond. “
