ASX Release

ASX Code : AGI

Ainsworth Game Technology Limited (AGT or Company) Chief Technology Officer (CTO) Position

AGT today announced that the CTO, Mr David Bollesen, will be leaving the Company on mutual agreement, with immediate effect. The Company acknowledged and thanked David for his significant input and expertise during his tenure and wished him well for the future.

AGT Chief Executive Officer, Mr Harald Neumann commented “David has overseen the execution of transitional product strategies which have laid the foundations to position the Company for continued improvements in product performance and the achievement of growth across all regions. I thank David for his dedication and contribution during his service with the Company and we wish him well for the future”.

Mr Harald Neumann added “ The Company will undertake a search for a new CTO which will be based at the Company’s operation in Las Vegas. In the interim the CTO role will be overseen internally by the respective regional presidents, in conjunction with game studio leaders. I am confident that the current management within product development areas will ensure no disruption in the execution of the planned product roadmap”.

For the purposes of ASX Listing Rule 15.5, this document is authorised for lodgement with the ASX by the Board.
