Investment Commentary

Pre-tax NTA increased by 11.48 cents or +7.06% during July to $1.7420.

Strong positive performance continued in July, led by gains in Lumos Diagnostics (Lumos), Tetratherix, Amplitude Energy and Airtasker. Negative contributions were minor and limited to a few names, including Vault Minerals and Count.

Lumos anchored this month's performance, contributing ~40% of the monthly return after reporting a pivotal distribution agreement for its FebriDx product in a deal worth up to $487m. Whilst realising the value of this deal is contingent on both regulatory and commercial success, we have confidence Lumos can secure the required approval for CLIA waiver from the FDA. Having previously traded at depressed levels, we view the recent share price re-rating as well justified with further upside remaining with regulatory success and commercial progress.

We participated in the successful IPO of Tetratherix, a company well known to Ryder Capital for many years via the Ryder Innovation Fund. Amplitude Energy continues to re-rate with operational improvements and a renewed focus on the East Coast gas market shortage driving increased market interest. Airtasker and Janison Education also made solid contributions to the Portfolio with strong operational updates. Importantly, without the contribution from Lumos, the monthly return would have been slightly over 4%, reflecting a broad positive move across the Portfolio.

During the month, we continued to add to our existing positions in Chyrsos Corporation, and Coast Entertainment on weakness, while topping up on some new smaller holdings. These investments were funded through cash and ongoing trimming across several names that have performed well.
