Alcidion signs contract with NSW Health to build and integrate components of a Child Digital Health Record (CDHR)

Adelaide, South Australia – Alcidion Group Ltd (ASX:ALC) today announces it has been engaged to build and integrate two key components for a proposed national Child Digital Health Record (CDHR) which is to be trialled in two NSW Health Districts. The CDHR initiative will provide a digital record of children's health and development information, currently captured in hard copy 'baby books'. Total value of the contract is ~$700k, which will be recognised in FY2020 over the length of the project.

Alcidion will deliver two components as part of the project; an operational Child Data Hub (CDH) and a NSW Health Jurisdictional Translator that will take information from operational systems and provide it to the CDH. The solution will be architected using the latest Fast Healthcare Interoperability Resources (FHIR) standards and will be hosted in a Microsoft Azure cloud environment.
