About PuriflOH Limited.

PuriflOH Limited, in conjunction with its technology partner, Somnio Global, is developing its Free Radical Generator (“FRG”) technology for a range of applications across three specific and initial opportunities: Air purification; Water purification; and Medical sterilization.

The FRG technology produces a range of Reactive Oxygen Species (“ROS”) that includes the powerful hydroxyl radical (OH⁻). The effectiveness of oxidizing radicals in purification and sterilization has long been known. The challenge for widespread adoption has been reliable, cost-effective in-situ production of the radicals themselves. The radicals have a short half-life and as a result they cannot be stored nor transported. To deploy and maximize the power of these radicals requires a robust, reliable and cost effective in-situ production system. This is where the Company’s development program is focused.

The exclusive global rights that PuriflOH has licensed from Somnio include the treatment of water and fluids, air purification and biofilm disinfection and sterilization.

These applications utilize one flexible core technology in different product formats.
