SELECT HARVESTS

Impact of Coronavirus on Select Harvests Limited's outlook

Select Harvests Limited ('Select') confirms that there has been no material short-term impact on its financial performance from the Coronavirus outbreak. However, given the significant global uncertainty about the impact of the outbreak on supply chains and consumer demand, the company notes the following in relation to potential risks from the Coronavirus:

- We have commenced harvest and the marketing campaign for the 2019-20 crop.
- The company expects a near-term softening in almond price and demand from the outbreak, the extent and duration of which will depend on when the virus can be contained and the China related supply chain and factories return to normal.
- China remains an important market, we also continue to market domestically and to our traditional markets - India, Middle East and Europe.
- Some raw materials are sourced from China, but after reviewing our current inventories, there are no immediate issues that would impact our ability to service our customers.
