Impact of business restrictions on Victorian operations

Reliance Worldwide Corporation Limited (ASX: RWC) notes the announcement today by the Victorian Government of the introduction of Stage 4 restrictions on business activities as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. RWC is assessing the impact these restrictions may have on its manufacturing and distribution facilities in Victoria, and will make a further announcement after that assessment is completed

Products manufactured in RWC's four Melbourne plants are supplied into the domestic Australian market as well as more broadly across the Asia Pacific region and are key to the maintenance and construction of hot and cold water sanitary systems, particularly for domestic housing. Certain products are also manufactured in Melbourne and exported to RWC's North American operations, which complements products manufactured by RWC in the US.

RWC typically maintains sufficient inventory levels to provide a high level of service to its channel partners and it is anticipated that this inventory will substantially mitigate any supply disruptions. RWC does not currently expect the Victorian Government's announcement to have any short term impact on sales in North America.
