Tax considerations

For taxation purposes, the rules governing the assessment of shares and options granted to an employee under an Employee Share Scheme (ESS) are contained in Division 83A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (Act). The default position under that Division is that an ESS interest acquired by an employee will be taxed upfront, with tax deferral and upfront tax concessions only available in limited circumstances.

Capital gains tax may, however, be imposed upon a subsequent disposal of any Securities you acquire. Broadly, you make a capital gain if the capital proceeds from the disposal of the Securities are more than the Securities' cost base. You make a capital loss if those capital proceeds are less than the Securities' reduced cost base. Your net capital gain should be included in your assessable income.

However, under the current taxation legislation, provided you have held your Securities for longer than 12 months, you may be entitled to utilise the 50% capital gain discount.

The acquisition or disposal of any securities in the Company may have tax consequences for participants in the Plan, which will differ depending on the individual financial affairs of each participant. You are strongly encouraged to obtain independent financial advice about the consequences of participating in the Plan from a taxation viewpoint and generally. To the extent permitted by law, the Company accepts no liability or responsibility with respect to the taxation consequences of applying for securities under this Offer.

Subdivision 83A-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, which enables deferral on Securities, will/will not apply (subject to the conditions in that Act) to Securities granted to you under this Offer.

Risks

You should be aware that the business, assets and operations of the Company are subject to certain risk factors that have the potential to influence the operating and financial performance of the Company in the future. These risks can impact on the value of an investment in the securities of the Company, including Shares, Options or Performance Rights offered under the Plan, and Shares issued on exercise of Options or vesting of Performance Rights.

Please note that all information that has been provided by the Company or any entity or person associate by the Company in relation to your potential participation in the Plan (Information) is general in nature and does not constitute personal advice or financial advice.
