Update on Alberta Energy Regulator decision on Grassy Mountain Coal Project

HIGHLIGHTS

- Grassy Mountain applications denied by Joint Review Panel
- Montem's Tent Mountain Mine to receive update on whether the Project will be designated for review by IAAC, due 1 July

Montem Resources Limited (ASX: MR1) ("Montem" or the "Company") advises that the Government of Canada announced on 17 June 2021 that the Joint Review Panel, in its capacity as Alberta Energy Regulator, has denied the application for the Grassy Mountain Coal Project owned by Benga Mining Limited (subsidiary of Hancock Prospecting Pty Ltd). The Grassy Mountain Coal Project is located in close proximity to Montem's assets in Alberta and as such its developmental process may be relevant to Montem's own operational considerations.

Montem has been closely following the application by Benga Mining Limited and this response from the Joint Review Panel ("JRP" or "Panel") was unexpected. It is unclear at this stage if the decision by the panel will be the subject of an appeal, or if a new application will be submitted by Benga Mining Limited.

The environmental impact assessment review process for Grassy Mountain was conducted under provincial and federal legislation as a Joint Review Panel. The JRP issued its report, and each of the participating agencies, Alberta Energy Regulator ("AER"), and Impact Assessment Agency of Canada ("IAAC") provided further details.

Based on their assessment of the information submitted as part of the application and the submissions as part of the hearing, the Panel has concluded in its report that "the project is likely to result in significant adverse environmental effects on surface water quality, Westslope cutthroat trout and their habitat, Whitebark pine, rough fescue grasslands and vegetation species and community biodiversity; and, significant adverse effects on physical and cultural heritage of some First Nations." The Panel also concluded that they had low confidence in the positive economic impacts presented as part of the process and found some of the mitigation proposals to be overly optimistic.

The JRP concluded that based on the significant adverse effects identified, the Grassy Mountain Coal Project is not in the public interest. It stated that due to the limitations of the Grassy Mountain application approach to assessing cumulative effects, the JRP were unable to assess the magnitude of some cumulative effects.

Montem has contacted the AER for guidance as to whether this decision will have any impact on the Tent Mountain Mine Re-start Project ("Tent Mountain Project"). The AER advised that each project's application is reviewed on its merits and that it will consider Montem's application in due course when submitted.

Montem is currently awaiting a decision from Federal Minister of Environment Jonathan Wilkinson on whether he will designate the Tent Mountain Project for review under IAAC. Environment Canada, through IAAC has twice previously reviewed the Tent Mountain Project and confirmed that it did not meet threshold limits that trigger a Federal review. The Minister has indicated he will provide Montem with his decision around 1 July 2021.

The Board of Montem considers a number of factors differentiate the Tent Mountain Project from the Grassy Mountain Coal Project application and the stated reasons for its denial. Montem will continue to engage Provincial and Federal regulators, Indigenous Peoples, local communities, and other engaged stakeholders at all stages of the application process, paying specific attention to concerns raised by the panel in relation to the Grassy Mountain Project.

It is unclear if the denial of permits for the Grassy Mountain Coal Project by the AER will have an impact on Montem's own application process. It comes at a time of increasing regulatory uncertainty in relation to Canada and Alberta's coal policy. Montem will continue to monitor the situation and keep the market advised accordingly.
