Extreme Weather Event and Initial Response: Recap

Operations temporarily suspended post extreme rainfall event in early March 2023 – Phased restart commenced on 1 August 2023¹

Capricorn Copper Aerial View²

- Operations suspended during extreme rainfall event in March 2023
- Temporary suspension of operations post rainfall event predominantly due to:
 - ① Damage to surface infrastructure, including water treatment plant, workshop and warehouse
 - ② Elevated water levels within on-site water storage structures
 - ③ Water ingress into Esperanza South mine (approx. 500ML)
- Priorities focused on health, safety and environment during the event with:
 - ✓ No significant safety incidents during the event
 - ✓ No uncontrolled release of mine-affected water from regulated on-site water storage structures
 - ✓ No loss of containment of tailings from tailings storage facilities
- Cost reduction initiatives implemented through restart preparation period, including force majeure notices and contract management
- Phased restart of operations commenced on 1 August 2023

Capricorn Copper Orebodies¹

Restart Sequencing

- 1 Restart of operations with ore from Mammoth and Greenstone on 1 August 2023 feeding the mill on campaign basis - matching achievable mining rates
- 2 Planned full recovery of operations is expected by mid H1-2024, enabled by dewatering and rehabilitation of Esperanza South

Growth Opportunities

- Potential for further additions to Mineral Resources estimates, initial focus on extension of Esperanza South at depth and new area of interest for exploration east of Mammoth
- Debottlenecking of mining rates to enable full utilisation of demonstrated 2Mtpa mill capacity
- Studies progressing to identify future opportunities to economically recover cobalt² in the copper ore feed to the concentrator
- ~1,900km² of highly prospective, under-explored tenements, with numerous targets prioritised

Tailings Capacity

29Metals is pursuing multiple levers to maintain tailings capacity to a planned life of mine Tailings Storage Facility (“TSF 3”)¹

Tailings Strategy²

- 29Metals currently has ~6 months of remaining capacity in the existing Esperanza Tailings Storage Facility (“ETSF”)
- Intention to move to TSF 3 in the medium term:
 - Deposition planned to commence mid-2025
 - Progressing options to accelerate to late 2024 / early 2025 with regulatory approval and long lead procurement the key drivers ^{1,2}
- Options to maintain tailings capacity until TSF 3 comes on-line:
 - Reducing production rates and increased utilisation of tailings in paste fill
 - Potential to return to deposition of tailings in the Esperanza Pit (“EPit”) (~9 months tailings capacity) ⁵
 - Lift of ETSF (Lift 2), subject to ongoing regulatory approval process (~6 months tailings capacity)
- Constructive engagement with the regulator is ongoing with respect to required approvals and above options

Tailings Timeline and Overview^{2,3,4}

Note: Reduction of production rates may result in changes to 29Metals’ guidance. Circumstances where 29Metals may reduce production rates include to provide additional time to engage with regulators and/or further delays to regulatory approvals. If there are material delays or complications in implementing the options outlined, a period of suspension of operations or ‘care and maintenance’ may be required⁴

1. TSF 3 is expected to have initial capacity for approximately 6 years of operations, with potential to expand tailings deposition capacity with further regulatory approvals.
 2. Refer to important information at the beginning of this presentation regarding forward looking statements.
 3. Timeline is for indicative purposes only and is subject to assumptions with regard to production rates, paste utilisation, wet season weather conditions and regulatory approvals. Refer to risk factors in this presentation regarding risks associated with regulatory approvals.
 4. Refer to risk factors in this presentation for information regarding risks associated with regulatory approvals.
 5. Capacity to deposit tailings in EPit is linked to the regulated design storage allowance (“DSA”) and water levels in the EPit. An application to amend the EPit DSA is well advanced, and engagement with the regulator regarding water reduction actions as part of the Capricorn Copper Recovery Plan is ongoing.

Golden Grove Outlook

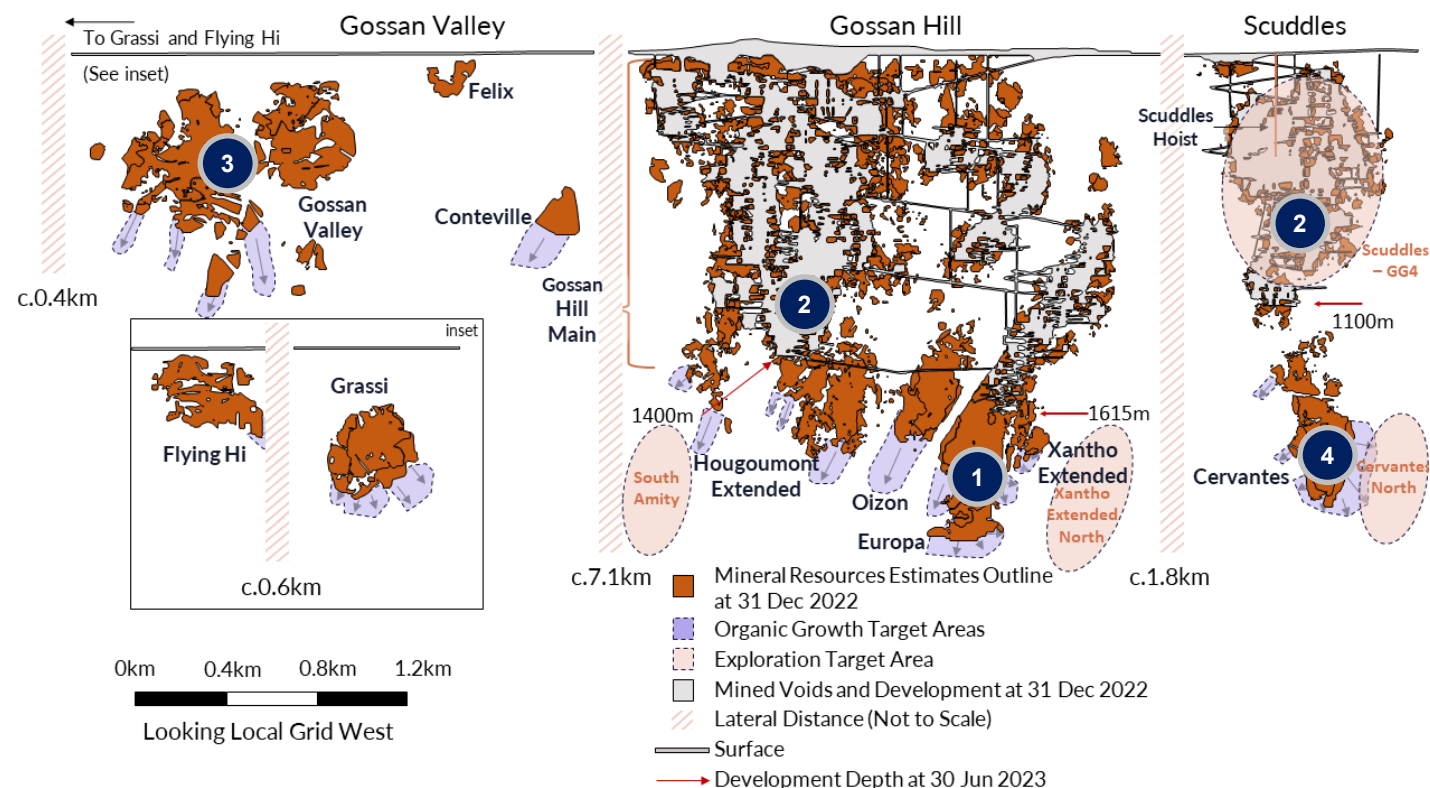

NOT FOR DISTRIBUTION IN OR INTO THE UNITED STATES

Golden Grove Mine Sequencing¹

Ramp-up of Golden Grove's highest-grade orebody Xantho Extended is expected to increase near-term production, with Gossan Valley expected to provide an independent production front from 2026

Golden Grove Orebodies²

Mine Sequencing³

- 1 Ramp-up production from Xantho Extended, Golden Grove's largest and highest copper-equivalent grade orebody
- 2 Balance of ore from other Gossan Hill ore sources and Scuddles
- 3 Planned commencement of Gossan Valley^{1,4} to provide an additional medium grade bulk tonnage ore source from H2-2026, providing a relatively shallow and independent production front to de-risk overall ore production/availability
- 4 Potential mine life extensions from Cervantes, targets for exploration at Cervantes North and Xantho Extended North

Major Capital Projects

- TSF 4 construction, approx. $15-20m in 2024
- Conversion of the paste plant to accept wet tailings
- Ongoing Xantho Extended capital development
- Gossan Valley capital to commercial production of approximately $88m, targeting development from 2025^{4,5}

1. Refer to important information at the beginning of this presentation regarding forward looking statements.
 2. Graphic of Golden Grove Mineral Resources is depicted for illustrative purposes only. Refer to important information at the beginning of this presentation regarding Mineral Resources and Ore Reserves estimates.
 3. Mine sequencing outlook is indicative and subject to change through ongoing mine scheduling and 29Metals' annual planning processes. Changes to mine sequencing have potential to impact production guidance and outlook.
 4. Subject to requisite regulatory approvals and Final Investment Decision ("FID"), refer to "Golden Grove Studies Update" released to the ASX announcements platform on 22 November 2022.
 5. Total capital costs to the end of the project year during which commercial production from the project commences. 1. Refer to important information at the beginning of this presentation regarding forward looking statements.
 2. Mine sequencing outlook is indicative and subject to refinement through ongoing mine scheduling and 29Metals' annual planning processes. Changes to mine sequencing have potential to impact production guidance and outlook. Refer to important information at the beginning of this presentation regarding forward looking statements.
 3. Refer to "Strategic Update" released to the ASX announcements platform on 23 May 2023 for further information regarding the material assumptions underlying this production outlook. The production outlook assumes a Xantho Extended mining schedule with relative portions of ore by category for 2024 to 2027 of 13% Inferred, with the balance comprising Measured and Indicated material. Cautionary statement: The information on this slide constitutes a production target for the purposes of the ASX Listing Rules. The production targets are based on a proportion of Inferred Mineral Resources. There is a low level of geological confidence associated with Inferred Mineral Resources and there is no certainty that further exploration work will result in the determination of Indicated Mineral Resources or that the production target itself will be realised.

Appendix B - Key Risks

29Metals is subject to a variety of risk factors. This section discusses some of the key risks associated with an investment in New Shares in 29Metals. Some of these are specific to its business activities, while others are of a more general nature. Individually, or in combination, these risk factors may adversely affect the operating and financial performance or position of 29Metals, which in turn may affect the value of New Shares and the value of an investment in 29Metals.

The risks outlined below are not intended to be an exhaustive list of the risks associated with an investment in 29Metals, either now or in the future, and this information should be considered in conjunction with all other information in this Presentation. Additional risks and uncertainties that 29Metals may be unaware of, or that it currently considers to be immaterial, may also become important factors that adversely affect 29Metals' operating and financial performance or position. Many of the risks described below are outside the control of 29Metals, its Directors and management. There is no guarantee that 29Metals will achieve its stated objectives or that any forward looking statements or forecasts will eventuate.

Business Risks

(a) Metal price volatility

29Metals' revenue is dependent upon the market prices for the metals that 29Metals produces from its mining operations (in the form of mineral concentrates). Market prices for metals are subject to fluctuation, including material fluctuations, due to a range of factors outside of 29Metals' control, including changes in the current or forecast supply and demand for relevant metals, the availability and cost of substitute products, currency exchange rates, inventory levels maintained by users, the cyclicality of consumption, actions of other participants in commodities markets, adverse weather incidents and operational challenges which affect supply, general global, regional and local economic activity, and other international macroeconomic and geopolitical events. These price fluctuations may have an adverse impact on the operating performance and financial condition of 29Metals.

29Metals' exposure to commodity prices may be exacerbated by:

- the nature of contractual arrangements for the sale of mineral concentrates, which typically apply a quotational periods concept where the price received by 29Metals is determined as the price prevailing in the months (typically 1 to 3 months) following shipment. As a result, the realised metal price for 29Metals' products will generally differ (potentially materially) from the market price for the relevant metals at the time of production out-turn and shipment.
- Commodity prices also indirectly impact 29Metals via the charges that 29Metals pays for the treatment and refining of mineral concentrates ("TCRCs") which may have a link with underlying commodity prices. As a result, if underlying commodity prices increase, the price paid for TCRCs may also increase.

b) Regulatory approvals

29Metals' mining operations are subject to a range of regulatory approval and licencing requirements prescribed under applicable laws in each jurisdiction in which 29Metals operates. 29Metals' business performance and future operating and financial results are dependent upon 29Metals obtaining, in a timely fashion, and maintaining regulatory approvals and licences required to support current and future mining operations.

Regulatory frameworks are complex and subject to change, including as a result of changes in government or government policy, changes in community expectations, and the intervention of the Courts. In addition, regulatory approval and licencing processes may be protracted due to internal government decision-making processes (which involve the exercise of discretion and may be unpredictable), and statutory and other rights of stakeholders, including the public, non-government organisations and anti-mining groups, in relation to proposed approvals and licences.

29Metals has ongoing regulatory approval processes at both of its operating sites, including (in particular) approvals relating to increases in tailings storage capacity at Capricorn Copper, as well as approvals that will be required to support the production outlook for Golden Grove, each as set out in more detail in this Presentation. Failures or delays in obtaining relevant regulatory approvals and licences in a timely manner, or failures to maintain relevant regulatory approvals and licences, may result in a range of adverse impacts on 29Metals, including:

- requiring 29Metals to change operating plans to maintain operations within existing approval and licence parameters, such as reducing production rates to extend existing tailings storage facilities' capacity, and, in certain circumstances may result in 29Metals suspending operations or entering a period of care and maintenance pending further approvals;
- delays or changes to development plans; and
- changes to the economic viability of 29Metals' development projects which, in turn, may adversely impact 29Metals' growth objectives and result in a revision of Mineral Resources and Ore Reserves estimates, or an impairment of the carrying value of 29Metals' assets.

Any failure to obtain or maintain relevant regulatory approvals and licenses which causes any of the above events may adversely impact 29Metals' operational and financial position.

Appendix B - Key Risks

c) Underground mining risks

29Metals undertakes mining operations by applying underground mining techniques. Underground mining operations are subject to various risks, including geotechnical risks and seismicity, factors affecting productivity (including ventilation) and maintaining development rates to provide access to ore for mineral processing.

Geotechnical risks

29Metals is subject to geotechnical risks which arise from changes in the stresses, seismicity and/or stability of the rock formations that surround ore and waste material once that material has been extracted by mining, along with general seismicity risks which may result in sudden movement of underground workings. Geotechnical conditions can be unpredictable and failures in current or historic mined areas, in the form of the material collapsing into stopes or development voids, may occur without warning. These events are beyond the control of 29Metals and their occurrence may result in property or equipment damage, injury to employees, major operational disruptions, the incurring of additional costs to restore access to affected areas and financial or regulatory penalties.

Productivity risks

Productivity in underground mining operations is subject to various factors, including labour and equipment availability. In addition, to maintain productivity, 29Metals must extend and expand infrastructure to support underground mining operations, notably ventilation infrastructure to ensure that temperature and air quality in the underground mining operations are suitable for human health and safety. Maintaining adequate ventilation infrastructure to support 29Metals' underground mining operations, particularly as development and mining activity progresses to greater depths, is, in turn, dependent on the availability and timely supply of ventilation assets by suppliers, and the ability to successfully operate ventilation assets to meet 29Metals' requirements. An inability to maintain adequate ventilation may adversely impact 29Metals' ability to continue its underground mining operations, or to continue underground mining at planned mining rates, and accordingly impact its revenue, operational performance and financial condition as a result.

Development rate risks

29Metals' underground mining operations rely upon development activities to progressively access new production areas in accordance with the mine plan and schedule. 29Metals' ability to execute planned development activities is dependent upon a number of factors, including labour availability, the performance of mining equipment and the availability and performance of mining contractors. If 29Metals is unable to access new production areas, it may require adjustments to the mine plan and schedule which may impact 29Metals' ability to meet its production estimates and adversely affect its future financial performance.

d) Extreme weather events

The frequency and severity of extreme weather or natural environmental disasters, such as heavy rainfall and flooding, including as a result of climate change, are difficult to predict. Extreme weather events may impact 29Metals operations directly or indirectly, adversely impacting 29Metals' operating and financial performance. For example, an extreme weather event in March 2023 at Capricorn Copper resulted in flooding of the Esperanza South sub-level cave underground mine and caused major damage to key site infrastructure such as the workshop, warehouse and water treatment plant and resulted in a suspension of mining activities. Extreme weather events such as the Capricorn Copper event, or other extreme weather events of a different nature which may occur in the future, may have a material adverse effect on 29Metals' cash flow, operating performance and financial condition.

e) Operating costs and capital expenditure

29Metals' business, operating performance and financial performance may vary according to a variety of factors, including the cost of key production inputs and factors specific to each mine site (such as changing ore characteristics, metallurgy and geotechnical conditions). Many changes to each mine-site are beyond the control of 29Metals, and the price of key production inputs is driven by changes in international markets (including commodity prices, exchange rate movements and capital markets conditions) and domestic markets (including wage increases and general cost escalation), which are discussed further in section 1.1(a) and are outside of 29Metals' control. For example, demand for key production inputs and consumables or general cost inflation of such inputs may result in price increases for which impacts may include:

- changes in operating plans to reduce production input and consumable requirements;

Appendix B - Key Risks

- delays to development projects and/or deferral of investment decisions by 29Metals;
- changes to the economic assumptions underpinning 29Metals Ore Reserves and Mineral Resources estimates which, in turn, may result in an adverse revision of mineral inventory; and
- review of the carrying value of its assets, which may result in impairment charges.

As such, macroeconomic factors influencing demand for key production inputs mean that 29Metals could face higher operating and capital costs in the future, which could adversely impact its profitability.

If 29Metals operating costs and capital expenditure exceed budgeted amounts this could adversely impact its financial position and its reputation.

f) Changes in currency foreign exchange rates

29Metals' mineral concentrate products are priced in US dollars while its operating costs are primarily Australian dollar costs. In addition, 29Metals has debt facilities denominated in US dollars and its cash reserves comprise a combination of Australian and US dollars. As a result, 29Metals' financial performance is exposed to relative movements in the US dollar to Australian dollar exchange rate and any adverse movements may therefore adversely affect the operational performance and financial condition of 29Metals.

g) Attracting and retaining a qualified and experienced workforce

29Metals' business is dependent upon 29Metals' ability to attract and retain a workforce with the appropriate skills and experience to execute 29Metals' business plans and ensure 29Metals meets its obligations. The market for personnel with the requisite skills and experience is highly competitive, particularly in Western Australia, and is subject to general labour market conditions and other factors, such as changes in Government policy regarding skilled migration, which are outside of 29Metals' control. Tight general labour market conditions are expected to remain in the nearer term.

Impacts associated with attracting and retaining a suitably skilled and experienced workforce include:

- changes to 29Metals' operating plans to manage available human resources;
- risks associated with staff turnover, including additional costs to train new personnel and the potential for health and safety incidents as a result of new personnel being unfamiliar with the specific environment and risks at 29Metals' operating sites; and
- incurring additional costs to implement attraction and retention strategies in the competitive landscape.

Each of the above factors may adversely affect 29Metals' operational performance, margin or otherwise effect its overall financial condition.

h) Occupational health and safety

Site safety and occupational health and safety outcomes are critical to 29Metals' reputation and its ability to retain necessary regulatory approvals. Certain events (including accidents, seismic events and underground fires) may be outside the control of 29Metals and a serious site incident could have adverse operational and financial impacts upon 29Metals' business, as well as its personnel and reputation.

In addition, 29Metals's business is subject to various OH&S legislative and regulatory requirements, which may become more stringent or the subject of stricter interpretation or enforcement. If 29Metals fails to comply with these requirements, it could result in fines, penalties and compensation for damages as well as reputational damage to 29Metals, and possible suspension of operations.

i) Regulatory compliance

29Metals' business activities are subject to a complex regulatory compliance framework, including regulation covering environmental matters, native title, mining permitting and licensing, workers compensation and health and safety matters. The regulatory requirements applying to 29Metals vary between the jurisdictions in which 29Metals conducts its business, and are subject to change as a result of a number of factors, including changes in government, changes in government policy and interpretation, and community expectations. Any failure to comply with environmental regulations may damage 29Metals' reputation and brand, including through negative publicity and disputes, which may require costly remediation and adversely affect its financial performance and share price.

In addition to the financial and reputational consequences of non-compliance, there are material costs associated with the increasingly complex compliance requirements, including compliance costs associated with addressing long term compliance challenges that are a result of long-term mining operations. Significant increases in compliance costs may be difficult to absorb for 29Metals and may adversely affect its operational and financial performance.

Appendix B - Key Risks

j) Reliance on contractual counterparties

29Metals is reliant upon contractual counterparties, both in the delivery of 29Metals' operating and business plans, and the sale of 29Metals' mineral concentrate products.

Contractors and suppliers

29Metals utilises contractors to plan and execute its current and future mineral exploration and mining operations activities, including for the performance of specialised services (such as drilling and specialised maintenance) and for the supply of equipment, infrastructure and parts (for example, ventilation assets). Notably, 29Metals has also deployed contract mining at both its operating sites.

29Metals relies on these contractors and suppliers to provide the equipment and human resources to execute the contracted activities.

Contractors and suppliers are also subject to labour market pressures (impacting the ability to attract and retain suitably skilled and experienced personnel), supply chain risks (impacting on the availability of equipment) and costs inflation as 29Metals, which contractors and suppliers may seek to pass on to 29Metals, including via contractual rise and fall terms. If 29Metals cannot pass on price increases from its suppliers to its customers, 29Metals' profitability and margin may be adversely impacted which, in turn, may result in a failure to meet forecasts, and adversely affect 29Metals' share price, financial performance and prospects. In addition, any renewal on unfavourable terms, or any failure to renew or other early termination, of material contracts may have an adverse impact on 29Metals' operating and financial performance.

Customers

29Metals relies on its customers performing their obligations under 29Metals' concentrate offtake arrangements. In the period 2021-2025 (inclusive) the majority of 29Metals' mineral concentrate products are committed to a single contractual counterparty, Trafigura Pte Ltd ("Trafigura"). Given this significant level of customer concentration, if Trafigura were to terminate its existing offtake arrangements, this may have a significant adverse impact on 29Metals' financial performance and prospects.

Any renewal on unfavourable terms, or any failure to renew or other early termination, of 29Metals' concentrate sales contracts could have an adverse impact on 29Metals' operating and financial performance. Further, 29Metals is exposed to credit risk in relation to its customers. If amounts due to 29Metals under its sales contracts are not paid in a timely manner or at all, it may have adverse consequences for 29Metals' cash flow and broader financial position.

k) Unexpected failure of equipment

29Metals' mines and associated processing plant and equipment are subject to general risks arising from incidents such as critical mechanical failures, fire, damage via corrosion of aged infrastructure, loss of power supply, failure to meet contractual specifications (including in relation to performance) and difficulties during commissioning. The occurrence of any such incidents could interrupt 29Metals' operations and adversely affect 29Metals operating and financial performance.

The impact of equipment failure is also influenced by the availability and performance of specialised suppliers and contractors to repair or replace damaged equipment, including lead times which have recently trended longer as a result of (among other things) general and specific supply chain constraints resulting from the direct and indirect impacts of COVID-19, as well as 29Metals' ability to exercise its contractual rights (which is subject to the liquidity and financial strength of its counterparties). Unexpected costs or delays in replacing or repairing the specialised equipment used by 29Metals may impact 29Metals' ability to meet its forecasts and profitability and may have a material adverse effect on 29Metals' financial performance, general prospects and competitive position.

l) Access to capital and capital management

To maintain operations and meet its growth objectives, 29Metals may, in the future, require access to debt and/or equity capital markets. Access to capital markets may be impacted by a variety of factors, including 29Metals' existing levels of financial indebtedness, general changes in global capital markets and changes in lending criteria in relation to sustainability and ESG performance. Many of these factors are outside of 29Metals' control, and an inability to access additional funding, either through debt or equity capital markets, may limit 29Metals' flexibility in planning for, or reacting to, changes in 29Metals' industry, increase its vulnerability to general adverse economic, industry and regulatory conditions, limit its ability to fund future working capital, capital expenditure, general corporate requirements, to engage in future development activities, or place 29Metals at a competitive disadvantage compared to its competitors that have less debt or fewer financial commitments. The occurrence of any of the above factors may have a material adverse effect on the financial and operating performance of 29Metals.

m) Debt facilities and future covenants

29Metals' ability to service its debt depends upon its financial position, performance and cash flows which to some extent are subject to factors beyond the control of 29Metals. If 29Metals is unable to meet its repayment obligations, it may face additional financial penalties, higher interest rates or difficulty obtaining further funding in the future. There is also a risk that any covenants related to financial performance and position may be breached and the facility may be repayable sooner than anticipated.

Appendix B - Key Risks

As described earlier in this Presentation, 29Metals has been granted certain covenant waivers. If, for any reason, 29Metals requires further covenant waivers in the future there is no guarantee that any covenant waivers which may be requested by 29Metals in the future will be granted.

29Metals is also subject to the risk that it may not be able to refinance its debt facilities when they fall due or that the terms (including in relation to pricing) on refinancing will be less favourable than the existing terms. If there is a deterioration in the level of debt market liquidity, this may prevent 29Metals from being able to refinance some or all of its debt.

n) Climate change

Climate change exposes 29Metals to a range of risks, as well as opportunities associated with the global transition to a greener economy. Risks to 29Metals as a direct or indirect result of climate change may include:

- increases in the frequency or severity of extreme weather events or natural disasters (refer to section 1.1(d) above);
- changes to the regulatory environment for 29Metals' business, including the inclusion of climate change considerations in regulatory approvals, and the imposition of tariffs and other imposts on cross border supply chains; and
- changes to the availability and accessibility of debt capital and insurance.

Direct impacts of climate change are likely to be geographically specific, and may include one or more of changes in rainfall patterns, drought-induced water shortages, increases in the occurrence and intensity of extreme weather events (including bushfires, storms and floods), and rising temperatures. The occurrence of such events, or an increase in the frequency and severity of such events, could result in damage to 29Metals' mine sites and equipment, interruptions to critical infrastructure such as transport, water and power supply, or loss of productivity, and increased competition for, and the regulation of, limited resources (such as power and water). Each of the above events, either individually or in aggregate, may have a material adverse effect on 29Metals' operational condition and financial performance.

o) First Nations, host communities and other stakeholders

29Metals' relationships with the community and other stakeholders, including first nations people and regulatory authorities, are critical to the continuation and long-term success of 29Metals' business. Fostering and maintaining a social licence to operate in respect of a mining project is a key component of sustainability & ESG, without which it can be very difficult to, among other things, secure necessary permits or arrange financing. Although 29Metals is committed to building and maintaining positive relationships with the communities near its mines, it may engage in activities that have, or are perceived to have, adverse impacts on local communities and other stakeholders, cultural heritage, human rights, and the environment, which may delay or prevent 29Metals from acquiring the relevant permits and approvals to comply with its regulatory obligations. Any failure to acquire the relevant approvals may result in suspension or delay in mining operations which would adversely affect 29Metals' operational and financial performance.

In addition, 29Metals' current operating assets are mature assets with long operating histories. Perceptions and expectations of stakeholders may change over time, including changes in aspirations and the expectations of local communities with respect to 29Metals' contributions to employee health and safety, infrastructure, community development, and environmental management. In turn, community and other stakeholder attitudes to 29Metals' business and operations may have an impact on 29Metals' ability to secure and maintain regulatory approvals (refer to section 1.1(b) above), which may subsequently adversely affect 29Metals' operational and financial performance.

p) Cultural heritage

29Metals must ensure that its operations do not interfere with or impact upon identified sites of cultural significance to first nations people. Following the events at Juukan Gorge in Western Australia, the risk to projects associated with Aboriginal heritage and cultural values has increased. While the government of Western Australia has announced the repeal of changes to Aboriginal cultural heritage legislation in Western Australia, there remains a risk of changes to processes and approvals in the jurisdictions that 29Metals conducts its business that require significant engagement and preferably agreement with the first nations groups may be required in the future, which may increase the timeframe and cost of project development, and potentially impact ongoing project activities where there is further surface disturbance.

29Metals does not have formal heritage agreements with traditional owners, which means there is no agreed heritage management process for identifying and addressing potential impacts on Aboriginal heritage and managing the impacts of activities on Aboriginal heritage values. However, 29Metals manages this risk through heritage management plans prepared in consultation with traditional owner groups, and heritage clearances have been obtained for all areas of disturbance at 29Metals' operating sites. However, if 29Metals' were to breach or otherwise fail to comply with cultural heritage regulations or these plans, the cost of curing a breach or resolving associated enforcement actions initiated by government authorities may be significant and may adversely impact 29Metals' reputation and financial position.

Appendix B - Key Risks

q) Mineral exploration and project development

29Metals aims to grow its production and extend mine-life through its pipeline of organic growth opportunities. The time between discovery of economically viable deposits to commercial production is highly variable and has been extending in recent years as a result of various factors, including capital requirements, changes to regulatory approval requirements (refer to section 1.1(b) above) and the complexity and depth of target deposits. Expansion of existing operations and development of new projects are capital intensive and often involve significant expenditure prior to a final decision to proceed, including significant investment in studies and regulatory approval requirements. While the exploration and development phases of a project are both time and capital intensive, there is no guarantee that an investment by 29Metals in mineral exploration and project development will result in a profitable mining operation.

The actual costs to expand operations or develop a new project, along with the operating performance once brought into commercial production, may also vary significantly from estimates, reflecting the duration of the period between an estimate and commencing commercial production, and changes in material considerations (for example, changes in market conditions, commodity prices and capital costs) over that period. Cost overruns and delays in the project development phase may adversely affect 29Metals' profitability, operational performance and financial position.

r) Mineral resources and ore reserve estimates

29Metals reports Ore Reserves and Mineral Resources estimates in accordance with the JORC Code. These estimates can be imprecise and are determined by applying a number of material assumptions, including future commodity prices and foreign exchange, cut-off grades, future operating and capital costs, along with a technical assessment of exploration and operating data (among other things). However, until mineral deposits are actually mined and processed, any Ore Reserves and Mineral Resources estimates are merely estimates.

There can be no guarantee that 29Metals' mineral resources estimates will be converted to ore reserves, or that material included in 29Metals' ore reserves estimates will be successfully produced. Nor can there be any guarantee that 29Metals' exploration activities will result in the discovery of new material, or reclassification of material previously discovered, to be included in mineral resources and ore reserves estimates. In addition, changes in factors outside of 29Metals' control, such as adverse changes to long term forecasts of commodity prices, may result in an adverse change to 29Metals mineral resources and ore reserves estimates. If 29Metals' mineral resources and ore reserves estimates overstate actual outcomes, it may adversely affect 29Metals' business and operations, financial condition, share price and prospects.

s) Impairment

Assets on 29Metals' balance sheet, including plant and equipment, mine properties, mineral rights, exploration and evaluation, and inventory, and other assets such as deferred tax assets, may be subject to impairment risk.

Impairment assessments require the use of estimates and assumptions such as long-term commodity prices (considering current and historical prices, price trends and related factors), discount rates, operating costs, future capital requirements, closure and rehabilitation costs, exploration potential, reserves, operating performance (which includes production and sales volumes), and future recoverability. These estimates and assumptions are subject to risk and uncertainty. Therefore, there is a possibility that changes in circumstances will impact these projections, which may impact the recoverable amount of assets and/or cash generating units. In such circumstances, some or all of the carrying amount of the assets/cash generating units may be impaired, with the impact recognised in the Consolidated Statement of Comprehensive Income.

t) Future rehabilitation liabilities

29Metals is required to include provisions in its financial statements for future rehabilitation and remediation costs. Estimating the likely quantum of such costs involves making assumptions as to mine life (which, in turn, is influenced by estimates regarding future commodity prices), the extent of disturbance and contamination, and the forecast cost of future rehabilitation and closure activities. As such, no assurance can be given as to the accuracy of 29Metals' current provisions for future rehabilitation and closure costs, and actual costs may be substantially greater. Increases in future rehabilitation and closure costs may impact 29Metals via:

- adversely impacting the overall financial position of 29Metals;
- adversely impacting the economic assumptions underpinning Mineral Resources and Ore Reserves estimates, in turn resulting in an adverse revision to estimates which underpin mine life; and
- review of the carrying value of 29Metals' assets, which may result in impairment charges

In certain jurisdictions where 29Metals conducts mining operations now or in the future, such as Queensland where Capricorn Copper is located, 29Metals may be required to provide a surety against future rehabilitation and closure liability, in the form of performance bonds or bank guarantees. The quantum of the surety is determined by the relevant regulatory authority having regard to an assessment of disturbance and contamination, and other criteria determined by the regulatory authority (from time to time).

Appendix B - Key Risks

u) Geopolitical conditions

29Metals' business may be impacted directly or indirectly by geopolitical factors outside of 29Metals' control. For example, under 29Metals' mineral concentrate sales arrangements, 29Metals' may be required to deliver concentrate to ports in China which presents risks given ongoing geopolitical tension between Australia and China and instances where it has been reported that certain Chinese state-owned utilities and steel mills had been verbally instructed by China's General Administration of Customs to stop importing thermal and metallurgical coal from Australia with immediate effect. While the customer under 29Metals' mineral concentrate contracts may elect for one or more shipments of 29Metals' mineral concentrates to be delivered to ports outside of China (such as South Korea), under the relevant offtake agreements 29Metals assumes the risk and the costs for changes in shipment locations. The costs associated with such an election by the customer may be material, and as a result may adversely affect 29Metals' profitability, operational performance and overall financial position.

Entitlement Offer and Underwriting Risks

a) Underwriting risks

29Metals has entered into an underwriting agreement under which the JLMs have agreed to underwrite the Offer, subject to the terms of that agreement (Underwriting Agreement).

The occurrence of certain events, or the non-satisfaction of certain conditions, may mean that the JLMs terminate the Underwriting Agreement. Those termination events are summarised in Appendix C of this Presentation.

The termination of the Underwriting Agreement, or the non-satisfaction of certain conditions precedent to the JLMs underwriting obligations, may have an adverse impact on the amount of funds raised under the Offer. If this were to occur, 29Metals may need to take other steps to raise additional capital which may not be available on favourable terms, if at all. Any decrease in the amount of funds raised under the Offer may have an adverse impact on the operational performance and financial condition of 29Metals.

If a JLM terminates the Underwriting Agreement, 29Metals will not be required to pay that JLM any fees which are not payable or accrued prior to the date of the termination.

The Underwriting Agreement also contains customary representations, warranties, indemnities and undertakings by 29Metals in favour of the JLMs.

b) Dilution risks

Upon completion of the Offer, the number of New Shares in 29Metals will increase from 482,081,840 to up to approximately 701 million. This equates to approximately 31% of the issued shares in 29Metals immediately following completion of the Offer. This means that to the extent Shareholders do not participate in the Offer, their percentage holding in 29Metals will be lower following completion of the Offer.

Appendix B - Key Risks

General Investment Risks

(a) Share market conditions

The value of quoted securities is subject to fluctuations in response to market forces, which cannot be controlled or accurately predicted, and prevailing market sentiment and overall share market performance may adversely impact the price of 29Metals' Shares, irrespective of 29Metals' underlying operational performance.

Sudden and dramatic movements in stock markets can occur due to changes in or occurrences of:

- global macroeconomic conditions;
- industry cycles and trends;
- interest and exchange rate levels;
- geopolitical events;
- force majeure events, including an outbreak of war, disease or act of terrorism;
- law and policy;
- commodity prices; and
- natural disasters or pandemics.

(b) Future dividends

There can be no assurance regarding the payment of future dividends by 29Metals. 29Metals is a holding company without any direct operations, meaning its ability to pay dividends depends on the ability of its subsidiaries to make cash available to it, and its ability to satisfy the requirements of the Corporations Act with respect to dividends. If 29Metals lacks sufficient cash and does not receive payments from its subsidiaries sufficient to pay dividends, 29Metals will need to obtain additional funds from other sources. As noted in footnote 4 on slide 9 of this Presentation, 29Metals is also subject to restrictions on its ability to pay dividends without the consent of its lenders following receipt of the covenant relief.

(c) Index rebalance risk

29Metals is currently included in the S&P/ASX300 Index. Inclusion in the S&P/ASX300 Index is assessed by S&P on a bi-annual basis and is referred to as a 'rebalance'. The next rebalance of the S&P/ASX300 Index will be announced in early September 2023. Based on information available to it, 29Metals expects to meet the market capitalisation criteria for inclusion in the S&P/ASX300 Index from the next rebalance date. However, there can be no guarantee that 29Metals will be included in that index at the relevant time as it is dependent on factors outside 29Metals' control, such as the exercise of S&P's discretion with respect to the quarterly index rebalance.

(d) Economic conditions and other global issues

General economic conditions, laws relating to taxation, new legislation, trade barriers, movements in interest and inflation rates, current exchange, national and international political circumstances (including wars, terrorist acts, sabotage, subversive activities, security operations, labour unrest, civil disorder and states of emergency), natural disasters (including fires, earthquakes and floods), and quarantine restrictions, epidemic and pandemics, may have an adverse effect on 29Metals' operations.

(e) Market liquidity

While 29Metals' Shares are listed on ASX, there can be no assurance of an active market for 29Metals Shares or that price of 29Metals' Shares will increase. There may be relatively few potential buyers or sellers of the 29Metals' shares at any time. This may increase the volatility of the market price of 29Metals' Shares and may also affect the prevailing market price at which shareholders are able to sell their Shares. In recent years, capital markets have experienced a high level of price and volume volatility, and the market price of securities of many companies have experienced wide fluctuations in price which have not necessarily been related to the operating performance, underlying asset values or prospects of such companies. There can be no assurance that continual fluctuations in price will not occur.

Appendix B - Key Risks

f) Litigation and dispute risks

29Metals is exposed to possible litigation risks including civil liability claims, criminal claims, environmental and native title matters, health and safety matters, workers' compensation claims, regulatory and administrative proceedings, government investigations, tort claims, contract claims, tax investigations and labour disputes.

29Metals is also exposed to the risk of disputes with contract counterparties and other persons. Any disruption to the ordinary course of business as a consequence of dispute may materially and adversely affect 29Metals' business, financial condition and reputation.

Although 29Metals' may defend any of the above matters and make insurance claims when possible, the outcome of any such claim or dispute is difficult to predict and materially or adversely affect 29Metals' business, financial condition and reputation.

g) Insurance risks

29Metals insures its operations in accordance with industry practice. However, in certain circumstances, 29Metals' insurance may not be of a nature or level to provide adequate insurance cover. The occurrence of an event that is not covered or fully covered by insurance may have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition and results of 29Metals. Insurance against all risks associated with mining exploration and production is not always available and when available the costs can be prohibitive. In addition, following the submission of claims under a relevant policy of insurance, the process for the assessment and resolution of those claims may be complex and may continue for an extended period before final resolution is achieved.

h) Changes in taxation and accounting standards

Changes to tax legislation, the interpretation of tax legislation by the courts, the administration of tax legislation by the relevant tax authorities and the applicability of such legislation may affect 29Metals' financial performance or the tax treatment of an investment in 29Metals Shares, including any returns on 29Metals Shares (for example, any franked dividends).

Additionally, accounting standards may change which may affect the reported earnings of 29Metals and its financial position.
