You acknowledge and agree that determination of eligibility of investors for the purposes of the Entitlement Offer is determined by reference to a number of matters, including legal requirements and the discretion of TWE and the Joint Lead Managers and each of TWE and the Joint Lead Managers and each of their respective Beneficiaries disclaim any duty or liability (including for negligence) in respect of the exercise or otherwise of that discretion, to the maximum extent permitted by law.

The Joint Lead Managers and their respective affiliates are full service financial institutions engaged in various activities, which may include trading, financing, corporate advisory, financial advisory, investment management, investment research, principal investment, hedging, market making, brokerage and other financial and non-financial activities and services. The Joint Lead Managers and their respective affiliates have provided, and may in the future provide, financial advisory, financing services and other services to TWE and to persons and entities with relationships with TWE, for which they received or will receive customary fees and expenses. These transactions may, together with other shares in TWE acquired by the Joint Lead Managers (or their respective affiliates) in connection with their ordinary course sales and trading, principal investing and other activities, result in the Joint Lead Managers (or their respective affiliates) disclosing a substantial holding and earning fee.

The Joint Lead Managers (and/or their respective affiliates) may also receive and retain other fees, profits and financial benefits in each of the above capacities and in connection with the above activities, including in their capacity as Joint Lead Managers to the Entitlement Offer.

Volume (000s 9Le)

NSR (US$m)

EBITS (US$m)

DAOU's trajectory of growth across the CY21-23e period reflects:

- Growing demand across the entire portfolio, led by the Discovery and Journey tiers
- Distribution growth, with DAOU transitioning from a California-focused distribution footprint to expand availability in several key US markets, including Texas and Florida, supported by the establishment of its partnership with RNDG in 2021

TWE expects average annual low-double digit NSR growth for DAOU over the medium term, driven by:

- Continued growth, ahead of the luxury category, for the higher-volume Discovery and Journey tiers
- Accelerated growth in the ultra-premium tiers, supported by DAOU's recently completed investment in their Paso Robles vineyards and third-party sourcing footprint
- Portfolio innovation, including the launch of a Napa-appellated brand tier and COO outside of the US

 - On-premise and off-premise focus
 - A significant opportunity outside of California, where DAOU has an excellent distribution footprint
 - Treasury Americas distribution is deeper than DAOU in the top 10 US wine markets¹
- Within US trade, DAOU has a significant opportunity for distribution growth, with current weighted distribution below that of key luxury peers
- Growth plans for the DAOU portfolio will leverage the strength of a leading luxury wine portfolio, and will be supported by RNDC, a highly engaged and vision aligned distribution partner to both Treasury Americas and DAOU

DAOU's category weighted distribution is currently below that of key luxury peers in the US¹

4 A significant value creation opportunity

Taking DAOU and Patrimony international through TWE's global distribution platform

- A unique opportunity to establish DAOU and Patrimony as renowned international brands, leveraging TWE's global scale and distribution platform
- Globally, and in particular through Asia, there is good potential for long-term growth:
 - DAOU's luxury codes (packaging, provenance, wine style and flavour) resonate strongly with Asian consumers and have parallels with Penfolds
 - Strong cabernet sauvignon portfolio, focused on Bordeaux varietals
 - The brand performs strongly with young luxurians
- Patrimony sits credibly among the world's leading ultra-luxury wine brands:
 - Leverage the exceptional wine quality and outstanding credentials to grow global awareness
 - Target listing in premier venues in key luxury consuming markets, globally

4 A significant value creation opportunity

Material production and overhead cost synergies

- Full business integration and cost synergy optimisation to commence in F25, with full run rate cost synergies of US$20m+ expected to be realised by F26
- Expected one-off costs of approximately US$27m¹

1. Integration costs of approximately US$27m are expected to be incurred and recognised as material items

4 Strong value creation for TWE shareholders

Transaction multiple 12.8x EBITDAS; 8.9x inclusive of synergies and net of tax benefits

- Transaction structure balanced to ensure alignment of interests with founders and the delivery of strong financial returns for TWE shareholders
- Upfront consideration partially funded by a placement of US$100m (A$157m) of TWE shares¹ to the existing owners of DAOU²
- Contingent earn-out of up to US$100m payable in 3 tranches (CY25, CY26 and CY27) linked to the delivery of DTC and ultra luxury NSR growth
 - If the US$100m earn-out was payable in full, this would represent a 3.5–4.5x multiple of the incremental EBITDAS required to trigger such payment³
- Transaction results in material cashflow benefits arising from the ability to deduct the amortisation of goodwill over a 15-year period for US tax purposes. Indicative NPV of cash benefits of ~US$100m with an average annual cash flow benefit of US$12m⁴

1. 50% of these TWE shares will be subject to a one-year voluntary escrow with the remaining 50% subject to a two-year voluntary escrow
2. Refer to footnote 2 on slide 32 for additional information
3. Represents the incremental EBITDAS above CY23e EBITDA. Note that the earn-out is only payable to the extent actual NSR for the relevant channel/tiers exceeds pre-agreed targets in each of the years, which themselves have an assumed growth rate factored in. For illustrative purposes, incremental EBITDAS has been calculated as the CY27 NSR target for the relevant channels/tiers, less CY23e NSR, multiplied by DAOU's CY23e EBITDAS margin of 33%
4. Arises from the ability to deduct the amortisation of goodwill for tax purposes over a 15-year period under US tax law. US$100m represents the NPV of the cashflow benefits
5. Excludes any non-cash financing charge associated with the accounting recognition of the earn-out liability (to the extent relevant) or any one-off transaction or integration costs (including those required to deliver synergies). Based on post entitlement offer and vendor placement shares issued.

Outlook

TWE standalone earnings outlook is unchanged from its AGM update on 16 October 2023

- TWE's long-term financial objective is to deliver sustainable top-line growth and high single-digit average earnings growth¹
- Trading conditions in the first quarter were consistent with overall expectations, and TWE expects continued strong demand for Luxury wine and resilient category dynamics for Premium wine, globally
- In F24, TWE remains well positioned to deliver growth in line with its long-term ambition and continued EBITs margin expansion
- Group EBITs will be split approximately 45%/55% 1H/2H, reflecting the planned phasing of Penfolds shipments to retain operational flexibility given the expedited review of tariffs on Australian wine in China

Outlook expectations do not assume any incremental earnings from China

- TWE's F24 and long-term earnings expectations do not assume any benefits from a positive outcome in relation to the review of tariffs on Australian wine into China
- The timing, or outcome, of the review is not expected to impact TWE's full year shipment plan

DAOU expected to contribute EBITs of US$23–25m in 2H24

- Earnings expectations assume a completion date of 31 December 2023 and the historical weighting of DAOU sales to the second half of the calendar year²

Revised long term margin ambitions for TWE and TAM, reflecting Luxury led portfolio mix

- Long-term TWE and TAM EBITs margin ambitions revised upwards to the high 20% range, from 25%+ and 25% respectively, reflecting the addition of DAOU

1. Organic, pre material items and on a constant currency basis.

2. DAOU's sales, and therefore EBITs, have been historically weighted to the second half of the calendar year. Through CY21–23e, the weighting of EBITs to the second half of the calendar year has been in the range of 61–65%

Appendix A – Key Risks

Key risks

This Appendix includes some of the key risks associated with any investment in TWE. TWE is subject to a variety of risk factors. Some of these are specific to its business activities, while others are of a more general nature. Individually, or in combination, these risk factors may affect the future operating and financial performance of TWE, its investment returns and the value of an investment in shares in TWE.

The risks listed in this Appendix are not an exhaustive list of risks associated with an investment in TWE, either now or in the future, and this information should be considered in conjunction with all other information in this Presentation. Many of the risks described below are outside the control of TWE, its Directors and management. There is no guarantee that TWE will achieve its stated objectives or that any forward looking statements or forecasts of TWE will eventuate.

This section discusses the key risks attaching to an investment in shares in TWE, which may affect the future operating and financial performance of TWE and the value of TWE shares (before and after the proposed acquisition of DAOU). Before investing in TWE shares, you should consider whether that investment is suitable for you having regard to publicly available information (including this Presentation), your personal circumstances and following consultation with financial or other professional advisers. Additional risks and uncertainties that TWE is unaware of, or that it currently considers to be immaterial, may also become important factors that adversely affect TWE's operating and financial performance.

The risks associated with TWE set out in this Appendix will also apply to the combined TWE and DAOU group following the completion of the Acquisition ("Combined Group").

Key risks – acquisition

Acquisition may not complete or may be delayed

There is a risk that the Acquisition does not complete, including if it is terminated prior to completion for non-satisfaction of a condition to completion, including as a consequence of required US regulatory approval pursuant to the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended. If the Acquisition does not complete, TWE will need to consider alternative uses for the Entitlement Offer proceeds. TWE may decide to invest some or all of the Entitlement Offer proceeds, use some or all of the Entitlement Offer proceeds for another acquisition or to repay debt (temporarily or permanently), or return some or all the Entitlement Offer proceeds to its shareholders via a share buy-back or other capital return mechanism. If the Entitlement Offer proceeds are not used to fund the Acquisition, there is no assurance that TWE will be able to use the Entitlement Offer proceeds to generate an equivalent return to that anticipated from the Acquisition, or at all.

If completion of the Acquisition is delayed, TWE may incur additional costs and it may take longer than anticipated for TWE to realise the benefits of the Acquisition including the synergies described in this Presentation. Any failure to complete, or delay in completing, the Acquisition and/or any action required to be taken to return the Entitlement Offer proceeds to shareholders may adversely impact TWE's financial performance and profitability.

Due diligence – reliance on information provided by the sellers

TWE has undertaken a due diligence process in respect of the Acquisition, which relied in part on the review of financial (including unaudited and other financial information), technical, operational, sales (including forecast sales), production (including vineyard yield) and other information provided by DAOU and the current owners. Despite making reasonable efforts, TWE has not been able to verify the accuracy, reliability or completeness of all the information which was provided to it. For example, while TWE has tasted and tested a representative sample of all key finished goods and bulk wine parcels, and all were acceptable, there remains a significant quantity of finished goods that TWE has not tested and that may not be of an appropriate quality or otherwise fit for sale. Similarly, TWE has prepared (and made assumptions in the preparation of) the financial information relating to DAOU (on a stand-alone basis and also combined with TWE post-acquisition of DAOU) included in this Presentation from financial (including unaudited and other financial information) and other information provided by DAOU and the selling shareholders. TWE is unable to verify the accuracy or completeness of all of this information. If any of the data or information provided to and relied upon by TWE in its due diligence process and its preparation of this Presentation proves to be incomplete, incorrect, inaccurate or misleading (for example, as a result of historical accounting errors or incorrect/inappropriate application of accounting standards or methodologies such as accruals for depletions), there is a risk that the actual financial position and performance of DAOU and the Combined Group may be materially different to the financial position and performance expected by TWE and reflected in this Presentation.

There are also certain potential issues identified as part of TWE's due diligence that TWE may not have accurately assessed or quantified. Such issues may have a greater adverse financial or operational impact on TWE than anticipated. For example, TWE has identified some issues of concern relating to employee payment issues in California. It is possible that the financial impact of these issues may be greater than TWE's current assessment. TWE has also identified certain deficiencies in DAOU's privacy policies and practices. It is possible that these deficiencies may be more extensive than TWE's assessment of them as part of its due diligence and may cost more or take longer to resolve to a standard that meets TWE's standards. It is also possible that some of the wells that provide water to one or more properties contain contaminants that may limit the use of that water.

There is also a risk that the due diligence conducted in connection with the Acquisition has not identified all material issues and risks. Therefore, there is a risk that unforeseen issues and risks may arise, which may also have a material impact on the Combined Group. This could adversely affect the operations, financial performance or position of the Combined Group.

The information reviewed by TWE included forward looking information. While TWE has been able to review some of the foundations for the forward-looking information relating to DAOU and the Acquisition, forward looking information is inherently unreliable and based on assumptions that may change in the future.

Key risks – acquisition

Analysis of the acquisition

TWE has undertaken financial, business and other analyses of DAOU in order to determine its attractiveness to TWE and whether to pursue the Acquisition. It is possible that such analysis, and the best estimate assumptions made by TWE, has resulted in conclusions and forecasts that are inaccurate or which will not be realised in due course. For example, the assumptions underlying TWE's sales forecast growth for DAOU, both through distribution and direct-to-consumer (DTC) sales channels may not be met and those forecasts may not be achieved. Similarly, if consumer demand for DAOU's range of products is below expectations, TWE's sales and depletions forecasts within the US Trade channel may not be met. Further, sales forecasts for the high value Reserve, Estate and Patrimony tiers may not be met if DAOU owned vineyard supply forecasts are not achieved. Also, the costs of goods sold or necessary capital expenditure in relation to DAOU as part of the Combined Group may be higher than TWE's estimates.

To the extent that the actual results achieved by DAOU as part of the Combined Group are different than those indicated by TWE's analysis, there is a risk that the profitability and future earnings (including the EPS accretion) of the operations of the Combined Group may be materially lower than the profitability and earnings reflected in this Presentation.

Recourse to the R&W Insurer

TWE has taken out R&W insurance in respect of certain claims that it may make under the Equity Purchase Agreement. The R&W insurance policy may not respond on all matters and is subject to a maximum liability cap along with time and other limitations. If a warranty or other claim was made by TWE under the Equity Purchase Agreement, there is a risk that the R&W insurance policy may not respond, or the R&W insurer may deny the insurance claim. Any inability to recover amounts claimed could materially adversely affect the Combined Group's financial position and performance.

Integration and synergy risk

The integration of DAOU carries risk, including potential delays or additional costs in implementing necessary changes, and difficulties in integrating various operations and systems. The success of the Acquisition, and the ability to realise the expected synergy benefits of the Acquisition outlined in this Presentation, will be dependent on the effective and timely integration of the DAOU business alongside TWE's business following completion of the Acquisition.

TWE's ability to retain key DAOU personnel will be important to ensure the successful integration of the two businesses and to the post-acquisition financial performance of the combined group. In particular, the partner relationships and operational knowledge of senior DAOU personnel will be extremely valuable in supporting TWE's ability to achieve DTC and Patrimony growth forecasts. While TWE is committed to retaining senior DAOU personnel, there is a risk that senior DAOU personnel choose not to remain employed in the business following completion.

The integration of DAOU's information technology, cyber security and other operational systems into TWE's systems, and in some aspects their upgrade to TWE's standards, is expected to be a complex exercise that requires ongoing support from current DAOU personnel for at least a transitional period following completion of the acquisition. While TWE intends to put in place appropriate and customary retention arrangements, there is a risk that DAOU personnel (particularly those with in-depth systems knowledge and relationships with external vendors) choose not to remain employed in the business following completion of the Acquisition. If this were to occur, TWE would need to source relevant expertise elsewhere, which may materially increase transaction costs, delay integration and increase TWE's exposure to cyber-security, privacy and data security breaches. Such breaches may give rise to third party claims against TWE.

As part of the integration process, in order to achieve certain anticipated synergies, TWE may need to negotiate early termination of some supply contracts and pay the associated early termination fees. There is a risk that those exit fees may be higher than expected, which would increase the transaction costs associated with the DAOU acquisition. There is also a risk that, due to the potential for intellectual property rights infringement, TWE may not be able to sell certain DAOU brands in jurisdictions that TWE currently sells wine into without re-branding those products.

While TWE has undertaken analysis in relation to the synergy benefits of the Acquisition, they remain TWE's estimate of the synergy benefits expected to be achievable, and there is a risk that the actual synergies able to be realised may be less than expected or delayed, or that the expected synergy benefits of the Acquisition may not materialise at all or cost more to achieve than originally expected or that dis-synergies may arise. These risks include, amongst others, unforeseen costs relating to integration of IT and operational systems. There is a risk that management's time and attention is diverted away from running its existing TWE business during the integration phase.

A failure to fully integrate the operations of DAOU, or a delay in the integration process, could impose unexpected costs that may adversely affect the financial performance and position of the Combined Group.

Key risks – acquisition

Historical liabilities	Following the completion of the Acquisition, TWE will become directly or indirectly liable for any liabilities that DAOU has incurred in the past, including liabilities which were not identified during TWE's due diligence or which are greater than expected, for which insurance may not be adequate or available, and for which TWE may not have post-completion recourse under the Equity Purchase Agreement or the R&W insurance. These could include liabilities relating to non-compliance with US state shipping regulations, inadequate historical insurance coverage or the failure to renew certain insurance policies, claims by taxation authorities, including in relation to historical US state income, sales and transfer tax exposure, historical accounting errors or mis-application of accounting standards, employee claims, including in relation to an existing wage and hour class action related to payment practices, and other potential employment law compliance claims, customer claims, including product recalls, regulatory compliance breaches and regulatory actions, current or future litigation and breach of contract claims. Such liabilities and related historical activities of DAOU may adversely affect the financial performance or position of the Combined Group and may also adversely affect TWE's reputation.
Acquisition accounting	TWE is required to undertake an assessment of the fair value of the tangible and intangible assets acquired as well as the actual and contingent liabilities of DAOU at the date of acquisition. TWE will engage external experts to the extent necessary to ensure appropriate values are attributed to acquired assets and liabilities. TWE will then allocate the purchase price among those identified assets and liabilities to determine the value of goodwill arising on the acquisition of DAOU. Accounting Standards provide for up to twelve months from the acquisition date (completion) for this assessment to be finalised. The outcome of this assessment could give rise to different values being applied than those used in the pro forma financial information contained in this Presentation. Such an outcome could impact the values of assets and liabilities reported in the consolidated balance sheet by TWE. There may also be differences in the cost of goods sold, depreciation and amortisation charges recognised in the consolidated profit or loss account which may impact reported profit before tax and net profit after tax.
Underwriting	TWE has entered into an underwriting agreement under which the Joint Lead Managers have agreed to underwrite the Entitlement Offer, subject to the terms and conditions of the underwriting agreement. The Entitlement Offer Proceeds are to partially fund the purchase price of the Acquisition. Prior to the completion of the Entitlement Offer, there are certain events which, if they were to occur, may affect the Joint Lead Managers' obligation to underwrite the Entitlement Offer. The ability of the Joint Lead Managers to terminate the underwriting agreement in respect of some events will depend on whether the event has or is likely to have a material adverse effect on the success or settlement of the Offer, or where they may give rise to material liability for the Joint Lead Managers. The events which may trigger termination of the underwriting agreement in the period from execution of the underwriting agreement to completion of the Entitlement Offer are summarised in Appendix C of this Presentation. Termination of the underwriting agreement would have an adverse impact on the proceeds raised under the Entitlement Offer and TWE's ability to fund Acquisition. If the underwriting agreement is terminated TWE will remain bound to complete the Acquisition. In these circumstances, TWE may need to find alternative funding (including further debt funding) to meet its contractual obligations and any such funding may be on less favourable terms or such funding may not be available. Termination of the underwriting agreement could materially adversely affect TWE's business, cash flow and financial position and its ability to complete the Acquisition.

Key risks – TWE and its business

Changing consumer preferences and market trends	Unanticipated changes in consumer demand or preferences may adversely affect TWE's ability to either capture growth opportunities or manage the supply of our products. These changes could be caused or accelerated by changes in economic outlook and consumer sentiment in the markets in which we operate. If TWE is unable to effectively identify and respond to changing consumer preferences and market trends, this may adversely impact our ability to maintain our market share and grow our business. This in turn may adversely impact TWE's financial performance, profitability and business operations.
Changing geopolitical environment	Significant or prolonged geopolitical instability in or affecting the markets in which we operate could adversely impact consumer demand, our ability to trade and our ability to access new markets. It may also disrupt global supply chains, and create barriers to the movement of people and goods across international borders. Instability or disruptions of this type would adversely affect TWE's business operations, financial performance and profitability.
Turnover of key talent	TWE's ability to deliver on our strategic targets is reliant on attracting and retaining experienced, skilled, and motivated talent in core functions such as winemaking, sales, and marketing. It also requires strong, resilient, and effective leaders as the business grows. If we are unable to retain key talent, this would adversely impact TWE's relationships with our key partners (such as our suppliers, distributors, and retailers), result in lost business knowledge, increase the risk of our remaining employees burning out, and hamper the business's ability to deliver on our key initiatives. In turn, this would adversely impact our business operations and financial performance.
Business disruption and/or catastrophic damage or loss	The scope of TWE's operations exposes it to a number of business disruption risks, such as environmental catastrophes, natural and man-made hazards and incidents, or politically motivated violence. A significant or prolonged business disruption could result in TWE sites, facilities or people being harmed or threatened, loss of key infrastructure, inability (or reduced ability) to trade, inventory shortages, excess or loss, customer dissatisfaction, or financial and reputational loss.
Technology and business infrastructure supporting growth	TWE's business relies on IT infrastructure, systems, and processes to support the ongoing growth of our business. Where such infrastructure cannot efficiently and effectively support the changing needs of the business, there is a risk of process inefficiency and error. Such inefficiencies and errors may result in increased costs and processing times, which may adversely impact TWE's financial performance and profitability and may also result in damage to the business' reputation.
Changing regulatory environment	TWE operates in a regulated industry in many of the markets it makes and sells wine in. Each of these markets has its own regulations that collectively govern many aspects of TWE's business operations. Over time, there may be additional regulatory requirements or changes to existing regulatory requirements, including requirements that relate to taxes, health and labelling guidelines as well as climate and environmental requirements. Remaining abreast of, and compliant with, additional regulations and changes to existing regulations requires diligent and ongoing monitoring by the business. There is a risk that TWE fails to comply with regulations. Any such failure may result in TWE having to pay financial penalties or fines or may prevent TWE from being able to sell its products in certain markets. This would adversely affect TWE's financial performance and may adversely impact TWE's reputation.
Cyber and information security	Cyber and information security is essential to protect our business-critical intellectual property and data privacy. As a result of continuing advances in technology, systems, and communication channels, increasing amounts of private and confidential data are being stored electronically. The increasing volume of electronically stored data, together with increasing levels of cyber-criminal activity, heightens the need for TWE to have robust data security measures in place in order to effectively protect itself against this potential threat. If a significant cyber-security incident or information breach were to occur, this would divert management's time and attention away from the business' operations and could result in increased costs (including costs incurred in responding to the incident or improving systems following an incident). A significant incident or breach may also result in regulatory breaches, resulting in fines and may also adversely impact TWE's reputation. Increased costs and reputational damage may in turn adversely impact TWE's financial performance and profitability.

Key risks – TWE and its business

Health, safety and wellbeing	The health, safety and wellbeing of the TWE team and everyone who is involved with the TWE business remains our highest priority. TWE recognises the importance of ensuring our people stay safe through closely managing existing health and safety risks and being proactive with identifying and managing emerging health and safety risks. Growing grapes, processing fruit and packing wine involves the use of complex equipment and processes that pose a risk to health and safety and could result in death, serious injury, or illness. If a serious health and safety incident were to occur at one of our sites or facilities, this may adversely impact TWE's financial performance, business operations, and reputation.
Impacts of climate related change on TWE's ability to grow, make and market quality wines	TWE's business is exposed to threats and opportunities posed by climate change. As the climate changes, our ability to grow, make and market quality wines may be affected by more frequent extreme weather events and changing temperatures that may in turn impact the yield and fruit quality of our vineyards. Climate changes could also lead to decreased water availability or quality or an increase in the cost of water. Any such changes would result in decreased revenue and increased costs, thereby adversely impacting TWE's financial performance and profitability. In addition, there are related transition risks arising from policy, legal, technology, market and reputation changes associated with the transition (or lack of) to a low-carbon economy. This transition, or lack of transition, may increase TWE's costs and adversely affect TWE's profitability. If TWE fails to effectively respond to the changes presented by climate change, this may also adversely affect our reputation.
Incident leading to negative coverage in traditional or social media	The strength of TWE's portfolio of brands is key to the success of the business. If an incident relating to TWE were to be misrepresented or receive negative or critical coverage in either traditional news or social media channels, this could result in damage to TWE's reputation or to our brands. This could be driven by a number of performance and operational factors, as well as commentary and opinions about issues and trends that have the potential to adversely impact our business operations, our brands, and people. This in turn may adversely impact TWE's financial performance.
Misaligned supply and demand for region, variety, and grade of grapes	TWE's ability to balance supply to demand may become challenged by several factors, including restricted availability of quality grapes or bulk wine, supply pricing, changes in consumer preference (for example, in relation to drinks category, wine style, region or varietal) or other shifts in demand. The misalignment of supply may lead to a shortage in wine supply, which in turn could limit our business' growth and revenue potential. Alternatively, misalignment may generate excess wine supply, which would need to be corrected through supply sales, asset re-alignment or reallocation of wine. As a result, our ability to manage our cost of goods sold (COGS), grow revenue and achieve our EBITs targets could be adversely affected, both in the year of harvest and in future periods.
Partner performance and market concentration	TWE's ability to achieve our objectives is directly tied to the performance of our partners (such as our suppliers, distributors, and retailers). The sub-optimal performance of any of these partners, or their market concentration and power, could have a significant adverse impact on TWE's bargaining power, market share, supply costs and profit margins.
Pricing and investment execution and cost management impacting margin outcomes	Where TWE's pricing and investment execution are not appropriately aligned to both our brand and product vision and strategy, as well as external competitor activity, there is an increased risk that TWE may lose market share. This in turn would decrease our profit margins and may cause brand damage. Developments in the global economy, including inflationary pressures and foreign exchange rate movements could increase costs and adversely impact TWE's earnings and margins.
Product quality defects, contamination, and counterfeit	If TWE were to sell wine with a significant quality defect, or deliberate contamination, it could have significant adverse impacts on TWE's corporate and brand reputation. It may also increase TWE's costs by requiring product write-offs or product recalls. As the reputation and value of TWE's brands increase, the risk of counterfeit and copycat products entering the market also increases. If a significant quantity of such products were to be released into the market, this may divert customers away from our products, which would adversely impact TWE's financial performance and profitability. Counterfeit or copycat products may also damage our brand reputation.

Key risks – TWE and its business

Litigation	TWE is involved, or could become involved, in disputes, litigation and other proceedings including class actions, including with investors, consumers, clients, regulatory or law enforcement bodies, business partners and third parties. In addition to the direct costs associated with managing litigation, proceedings or disputes and their eventual outcome, there is a risk that TWE’s business could be subject to adverse outcomes or settlements and TWE’s reputation may suffer due to the profile and public scrutiny surrounding any such litigation, proceedings and disputes regardless of their outcome.
Carrying Value of Non-Financial Assets	The Group regularly tests property, plant and equipment and intangible assets for impairment. At its most recent assessment in F23, TWE reported that for the TPB division, the recoverable amount exceeds the carrying value by $186 million and that a reduction in cash flow forecasts of more than 26% for all years in the forecast period and also in the terminal year would reduce the excess of the recoverable amount over the carrying value to nil.

Key risks – general investment risks

Economic risk factors	Changes in the economic climate in which TWE operates may adversely impact its financial performance. While TWE products are sold in more than 70 countries around the world, the majority of TWE's operations are located in, or service, the Australian, United States, Italian, French, United Kingdom and New Zealand markets. Changes in economic factors in these regions, such as economic growth, employment levels, interest and inflation rates, foreign exchange rates, consumer sentiment and spending, market volatility, global commodity prices, labour costs, transportation costs, commodity costs and the availability and cost of credit could adversely impact the financial and operational performance of TWE or the value of TWE shares. The operational and financial performance and position of TWE, TWE's share price, and TWE's ability to pay dividends, may be adversely affected by a worsening of general economic conditions in Australia, the United States, Italy, France, the United Kingdom and New Zealand as well as other international market conditions and related factors. It is also possible that new risks might emerge as a result of Australian, United States, Italian, French, United Kingdom, New Zealand or global markets experiencing extreme stress, or existing risks, may manifest themselves in ways that are not currently foreseeable. The equity markets have in the past been, and may in the future be, subject to significant volatility.
Market price of TWE shares	The market price of TWE shares will fluctuate due to various factors, many of which are non-specific to TWE, including recommendations by brokers and analysts, general movements in Australian and international stock markets, Australian and international general economic conditions and outlook, changes in inflation rates, changes in interest rates, changes in government, fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies, global geo-political events and hostilities and acts of terrorism, and investor perceptions. In the future, these factors may cause TWE shares to trade at a lower price, and no assurance can be given that the New Shares will trade at or above the Offer Price. None of TWE, its directors or any other person guarantees the performance of the New Shares. The operational and financial performance and position of TWE, TWE's share price, and TWE's ability to pay dividends, may be adversely affected by a worsening of general economic conditions in Australia, as well as international market conditions and related factors. It is also possible that new risks might emerge as a result of Australian or global markets experiencing extreme stress, or existing risks, may manifest themselves in ways that are not currently foreseeable. The equity markets have in the past and may in the future be subject to significant volatility.
Liquidity	There can be no guarantee of an active market for TWE shares or that the price of TWE shares will increase. There may be relatively few potential buyers or sellers of TWE shares on the ASX at any time. This may increase the volatility of the market price of TWE shares. It may also affect the prevailing market price at which shareholders are able to sell their TWE shares.
Interest rates	While TWE takes reasonable steps to protect itself through the use of hedges, rising interest rates may nonetheless adversely impact TWE's interest payments on its floating rate borrowings, which may adversely impact the performance of TWE's business.
Risk relating to renounceability	If a TWE shareholder does not take up their entitlement under the Entitlement Offer, there is no guarantee that any value will be received for their renounced entitlement through the relevant bookbuild processes under the Entitlement Offer or (in the case of eligible retail shareholders) that they will be able to receive any value through selling their entitlements on ASX or otherwise transferring them. The ability to sell entitlements under the institutional or retail bookbuild processes under the Entitlement Offer and the ability to obtain any premium will be dependent upon various factors, including market conditions. Further, the relevant bookbuild price may not be the highest price available but will be determined having regard to a number of factors, including having binding and bona fide offers which, in the reasonable opinion of the Joint Lead Managers, will, if accepted, result in otherwise acceptable allocations to clear the entire book. Similarly, for eligible retail shareholders, there is no guarantee that there will be a liquid market on ASX or otherwise in traded entitlements, and prices obtainable for entitlements may rise and fall over the trading period and will depend on many factors including the demand for and supply of entitlements and the value of TWE shares relative to the issue price. To the maximum extent permitted by law, none of TWE, the Joint Lead Managers, their respective related bodies corporate and affiliates and their respective directors, officers, employees, agents and advisers will be liable (including for negligence) for any failure to procure subscribers under either bookbuild at a price equal to or in excess of the issue price. Shareholders who do not participate in the Entitlement Offer, or take up only part of their entitlement, will have their percentage holding in TWE reduced.

Risk of shareholder dilution	If shareholders do not participate in the Entitlement Offer then their percentage shareholding in TWE will be diluted as a result of the issue of new shares under the Entitlement Offer. Even where shareholders do participate fully in the Entitlement Offer, their percentage shareholding in TWE will be diluted as a result of the issue of the new shares to, or at the discretion of, the existing shareholders of DAOU. In the future, TWE may also elect to issue new shares, including to fund or raise proceeds for acquisitions TWE may decide to make. While TWE will be subject to the constraints of the ASX Listing Rules regarding the percentage of its capacity it is able to issue within a 12-month period (other than where exceptions apply), shareholders may be diluted as a result of such future issues of shares and fundraisings.
Changes to laws, government, monetary or fiscal policy or regulatory regimes	Changes to laws and regulations may adversely affect TWE, including by increasing its costs either directly (eg by increasing a tax TWE is required to pay) or indirectly (eg by increasing the cost of complying with a particular legal requirement). Any such change may adversely affect TWE's future financial performance. Changes to key government policies or regulatory regimes affecting the businesses of TWE, including those in the area of imports/exports, viticulture and industrial relations, may affect the operational and financial performance of TWE.
Taxation changes	There is the potential for changes to taxation laws and changes in the way taxation laws are interpreted. Any change to the current tax rates imposed on TWE is likely to affect returns to TWE's shareholders. An interpretation of taxation laws by the relevant tax authority that is contrary to TWE's view of those laws may increase the amount of tax to be paid or cause changes in the carrying value of tax assets in TWE's financial statements. In addition, any change in tax rules and tax arrangements could have an adverse effect on the level of dividend franking and shareholder returns. An investment in shares involves tax considerations that differ for each investor. Investors are encouraged to seek professional tax advice in connection with any investment in TWE.
Changes to accounting policies and valuations	Changes in accounting policies, arising from recently issued or amended accounting standards by the Australian Accounting Standards Board may affect the reported earnings of TWE and its financial position from time to time. Additionally, TWE maintains internal views on the valuation of its business and these estimates are considered when assessing the accounting carrying value of assets on its balance sheet. Periodic revaluations (which consider both internal and external factors) may result in a reduction of valuations which could lead to some of its assets being impaired.
Dividends	The payment of dividends on TWE shares is dependent on a range of factors including its profitability, the availability of cash and capital requirements of the business. Any future dividend levels will be determined by the TWE Board having regard to its operating results and financial position at the relevant time. There is no guarantee that any dividend will be paid by TWE or, if paid, that the dividend will be paid on previous levels. The level to which TWE is able to frank dividends declared is subject to a large number of factors in addition to those outlined above for dividends. There is no guarantee that any dividend will be franked or franked at previous levels.

The Underwriting Agreement contains conditions precedent, representations, warranties, undertakings and indemnities in favour of the Underwriters. An Underwriter may, in certain circumstances, terminate its obligations under the Underwriting Agreement on the occurrence of certain events, including the following:

Underwriting agreement summary

The ability of an Underwriter to terminate the Underwriting Agreement in respect of the above termination events denoted with an asterisk(*) will depend on whether the event:

- has, or is likely to have, a materially adverse effect on the: (i) success of the Entitlement Offer; or (ii) ability of that Underwriter to market or promote or settle the Entitlement Offer; (iii) likely price at which the Entitlement Offer shares are likely to trade on ASX; (iv) the willingness of persons to apply for, or settle obligations to subscribe for, Entitlement Offer shares; or
- will, or is likely to, give rise to a liability of that Underwriter or its respective affiliates under, or a contravention by that Underwriter or its respective affiliates or any of them being involved in a contravention of, any applicable law.

If an Underwriter terminates its obligations under the Underwriting Agreement, it will not be obliged to perform any of its obligations that remain to be performed. Termination of the Underwriting Agreement could have an adverse impact on the amount of proceeds raised under the Entitlement Offer. If TWE withdraws the Entitlement Offer, it will not receive any proceeds. In each of these circumstances, TWE would need to utilise alternative funding options to achieve its objectives as described in this presentation.

See the Appendix 3B released to ASX by TWE on the date of this presentation for details of the fees payable by TWE to the Underwriters in connection with the Underwriting Agreement.
