Impairment of investment in Zhaopin

Consistent with its usual practice for the end of a financial year, SEEK Limited (SEEK) has undertaken a review of the carrying values of its assets as at 30 June 2024 in accordance with SEEK's accounting policies and the applicable accounting standards. As a result, SEEK will recognise a A$141m total impairment charge related to its investment in Zhaopin in its FY2024 financial results, comprising an impairment of the carrying value and the net consideration receivable.

A A$120m impairment of the carrying value of SEEK's 23.5% equity accounted investment in Zhaopin will be recognised in Continuing Operations. The key factors that contributed to this impairment are:

- The Chinese economy had previously been expected to return quickly to broad-based growth after the easing of COVID restrictions in January 2023.<sup>1</sup> Instead, the recovery has been modest with no clear visibility on sustained recovery. In terms of employment markets, blue-collar employment has performed considerably better than the white-collar market in which Zhaopin primarily operates.
- Competition in the white-collar market has intensified in this period of lower than anticipated volumes.<sup>1</sup>
- As a result, Zhaopin's revenue has declined, as have revenue and cash flow forecasts in the near to medium term.

In addition, a A$21m impairment of the Zhaopin net consideration receivable will be recognised in Discontinued Operations. The net consideration receivable, which relates to the disposal of SEEK's controlling interest in Zhaopin in May 2021<sup>2</sup>, is partially backed by recourse to equity. The fair value of the net consideration receivable has decreased due to the overall reduction in the valuation of Zhaopin.

Following the impairment, SEEK's carrying value of the equity accounted investment in Zhaopin will be A$433m and the net proceeds outstanding will be A$75m.

SEEK's Adjusted NPAT will be impacted by a lower share of earnings from Zhaopin during the period of approximately A$5m relative to FY2023.

SEEK will release its FY2024 financial results on 13 August 2024.
