SAFEROADS T-LOK TEMPORARY CONCRETE ROAD BARRIER APPROVED IN NSW

Saferoads Holdings Limited (ASX: SRH) is pleased to announce that it has received NSW State Road Authority approval to deploy its exclusively licensed T-LOK temporary concrete road barrier on NSW roads. This product is predominantly designed and used on major highway road works to provide positive protection to both the motorist and workers alike. This proven product has been successfully marketed and sold exclusively by Saferoads for a number of years in other Australian states.

The timing for this new approval in NSW is significant as the previous market-leading product in this category lost its State approval earlier this year. This, coupled with a record road infrastructure spend commitment over the next 5 years in NSW, as announced by the NSW State government in June 2014, provides an excellent opportunity for Saferoads to capitalise on this market space with the T-LOK temporary concrete barrier.

CEO, Mr. Darren Hotchkin said "With the recently announced increases in various State and Federal Government road infrastructure funding over the coming years, Saferoads is well-positioned to be able to provide best-of-breed workzone solutions such as the T-LOK concrete barrier and the newly commercialized Ironman Hybrid steel and concrete barrier."
