Victorian Government Award Recognises Senetas as Top ICT Exporter

Senetas claims top spot in Governor of Victoria Export Awards (GOVEA)

Senetas Corporation Limited (ASX: SEN), Australia's leading network data security company, has been selected as the winner at the coveted Governor of Victoria Export Awards (GOVEA) – information and communications technology.

The Governor sponsored Victorian government award to Senetas is for 'outstanding international success in the field of information and communications technologies'.

In presenting the awards the governor of Victoria, Her Excellency, The Honourable Linda Dessau AM, said: "I am delighted to support and celebrate our leading exporters. I am proud of their outstanding achievements".

Aimed at recognising Victoria's most successful and innovative exporters who have cemented their place as leading suppliers to international markets, the GOVEA reward businesses at the forefront of their industries.

"With nearly 20 years' expertise in protecting much of the world's most sensitive data; combined with 100% of our product technology development and manufacturing here in Victoria; this award is wonderful recognition of Senetas's achievements," said Andrew Wilson, CEO, Senetas.

Mr Wilson added: "This export award for information and communications technologies is also important local recognition highlighting to the global technology sector that Australia is skilled and knowledgeable in developing innovative technologies; and provides some of the best security solutions in the world," said Andrew Wilson, CEO, Senetas.

"We develop and build locally; but we act and perform globally with the majority of our encryption solutions exported to more than 30 countries. This allows us to develop quality products and drive growth in the Australian technology markets while also serving the needs of our global customers. The strength of our independent international product certifications and being the only multi-certified encryption hardware solution provider in the world highlights our global market strengths. We are also pleased to be providing opportunities to further skills development in the critical Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics sector in Australia," concluded Mr Wilson.
