

DOOLGUNNA EXPLORATION UPDATE

Key Points

- Drill Rig on route to site and will commence drilling in coming days.
- Covid-19 border issues delayed the arrival of drill equipment from the Northern Territory.
- Site access completed with camp installed and drill sites ready.

Summary

Western Australian focussed mineral explorer Strickland Metals Limited (ASX:STK) ("Strickland" or "the Company") is pleased to update the market on progress of activities at its exciting Doolgunna exploration project.

Exploration drilling will commence this week on the Doolgunna Project located within the Bryah Basin of Western Australia. The drill contractor has experienced unforeseen delays at the Northern Territory border due to Covid-19 restrictions. The contractor's equipment and crew have mobilised over the weekend and are due to arrive at the Doolgunna site today and commence the drilling program shortly thereafter.

The target for drilling is a compelling base metal prospect that exhibits geological characteristics that are interpreted to be similar to Sandfire Resources Limited's DeGrussa "VMS" deposit located approximately 30 kilometres to the east of the Project.

The prospect has a 3-kilometre-long electromagnetic conductor that is interpreted to extend below an outcropping copper-zinc gossan that has been mapped over a 1.2-kilometre strike (refer ASX release 20 July 2020).

There has never been any drilling into this prospect.

This announcement was authorised for release by the Board of Strickland Metals Limited.

The Company confirms that it is not aware of any new information or data that materially affects the information included in the original market announcements and that the form and context in which the Competent Person's findings are presented have not materially changed from the original market announcement.
