archTIS Secures $578k Contract with the Australian Department of Defence for Kojensi

Highlights

- archTIS has secured a contract with the Australian Department of Defence (Defence) for licensing of Kojensi to be deployed on premise.
- Total contract value is A$578,000 (inc. GST) which includes $264,000 for an annual license and $314,000 for hardware and services.
- This continues archTIS' strong growth in the Defence and National Security market after recent announcements of NC Protect wins in the sector.

archTIS Limited (ASX:AR9), a global provider of innovation software solutions for the secure collaboration of sensitive information, today announced the Company has entered into a one-year contract to expand deployment of Kojensi with the Australian Department of Defence.

The contract total, valued at $578,000, is a $264,000 annual software license and hardware and services contract worth $314,000 within the Department of Defence to secure information collaboration. The contract is effective immediately for a fixed term ending June 2022 and can be terminated by the customer without cause at any time. To date, the Company has not experienced any contracts being cancelled for such convenience clauses.

Daniel Lai, CEO and Managing Director, stated, "We have stated over the last 12 months that Defence and the Defence Industry are a primary target for our commercial growth. It is pleasing to see the rate of growth for Kojensi and NC Protect in this critical, well-funded market of national security. archTIS continues to be a zero-trust provider to Defence and Defence industry at a time when it has never been more important to securely share information.

The trust Defence clients place in our products should provide strong levels of confidence to commercial clients who also need to address the threats and risks of the sharing of their digital information across their partners and supply chain," Lai concluded. -ENDS-
