Commenting on the Company's progress, Douough's Founder and CEO Andy Taylor said:

"We are delighted to report on yet another strong month of growth in November. As previously stated, the introduction of the monthly membership fee for new users has resulted in a substantial uplift in revenue, which will be boosted by the addition of merchant funded affiliate revenue from the launch of the Douough Rewards offering, our recently announced partnership with Lemonade and income from Crypto investing activities on the platform."

"New customer acquisition growth will slow down by design in the lead up to Christmas, as we reduce our marketing activities due to the extremely high cost of advertising in this period. Advertising will be dialed up again in January, with the strong growth to continue once again."

"Our recently announced capital raise allows us to continue to build on the strong momentum we are showing in the US, as well as kick-off the AU integration with Railsbank. With the launch of our new Douough Rewards offering in time for Christmas spending, the Crypto investing feature under development as well as a couple of major enhancements to the core product, we are well positioned in the coming months to expedite our customer acquisition rate and further improve our activation rate."
