Quarterly Activities Report

for the period ending 31 March 2022

West Cobar Metals Limited (ASX: WC1) (“West Cobar”, “the Company”) is pleased to present its Activities Report for the three-month period ended 31 March 2022.

Highlights

- Drilling at the Mount Jack Project completed in January
- Cawkers Well gold prospect next to be tested by reverse circulation (RC) drilling with land access negotiations in progress
- Evaluation of lithium, nickel and copper projects in Australia and in other tier one jurisdictions worldwide, with a view to adding to asset portfolio

Mount Jack

West Cobar completed drilling at its Mount Jack Project in north-western New South Wales with a single hole (MJD01) comprising 141.0m of mud rotary and 210.1m of diamond coring (Table 1)¹ in January.

The drill hole tested an aeromagnetic and ground magnetics “bullseye” target, where modelling had indicated a classic Cobar-style base metal target and historical records showed traces of gold and copper in a previous drill hole.²

The diamond hole drilled by West Cobar intersected highly magnetic vesicular basalt at 348.1m. The overlying conglomerate contained magnetic basalt pebbles from 229.8m to 243.4m. Abundant dolerite pebbles in the conglomerate were also slightly magnetic. These factors are considered likely to explain the form and intensity of the magnetic anomaly.¹

No significant values were obtained from analyses¹ (laboratory assays for gold, and handheld XRF for base metals) of the RC chips and diamond core.

Hole ID	E (MGA Z-54)	N (MGA Z-54)	Elevation (m)	Dip	Azimuth (T)	Mud Rotary (m)	Diamond (m)	TD (m)
MJD01	754573	6574163	128	-85	17.5	141.0	210.1	351.1

Cawkers Well

The Cawkers Well tenement area, 60km west-southwest of Wilcannia in NSW, includes several potentially gold mineralised magnetic linear structures defined by aeromagnetic data, and which correspond to gold in soil sampling results, surface gold occurrences and previous drilling (the extremely sparse drilling includes an intersection of 8m at 0.84g/t Au in historical RC hole CW003²). Exploration activities are planned to focus directly on the interpreted mineralised magnetic structures.

During the quarter, West Cobar’s geological team examined core from a historical diamond drillhole at Cawkers Well, DDCW01, at the NSW Geological Survey’s E C Andrews Drillcore Facility in Broken Hill. Intersections containing gold values were observed associated with discrete steep zones of shearing, brecciation and quartz-carbonate veining, which confirms the Company’s structural model for the virtually untested gold mineralisation at Cawkers Well.

Negotiations with the landholder for access to the Cawkers Well prospect are ongoing, leading to a delay to the planned RC drilling program.

Other Projects

Bulla Park

The Bulla Park Project, 110km west of Cobar in NSW, has been confirmed as hosting a large stratabound mineralised system which could be locally upgraded by structural controls. A viable target for significant copper mineralisation remains and drill targets will be established to test and extend the higher-grade copper-silver zone intersected in drill hole 19CA002 (33m of 0.45% Cu² from 232m).

The Coomeratta South prospect, 40km south of the Bulla Park prospect, contains anomalous lead and antimony values² over an area of 5km by 3km. It is considered that this anomalous geochemistry may be reflecting a large copper mineralised system similar to that at Bulla Park where the copper has been totally leached near the surface. Some reconnaissance geological mapping was carried out during the quarter over the prospect area.

Nantilla

The base metal/gold targets at the Nantilla Project, to the north of Mt Jack, comprise a gravity high under sedimentary cover which lies west of and adjacent to an interpreted intrusive, and the magnetic rim of the intrusive, where skarn mineralisation could occur.²

New Projects

Field inspections were made to assess open ground and ground being offered in the west Cobar region. Evaluations of lithium, nickel and copper projects in Australia and other tier one jurisdictions worldwide, with a view to adding to the Company's asset portfolio, are in progress.
