Exploration Activities for the Quarter Ended 31 December 2023

Sturec Gold Mine, Slovakia

Scoping Study

MetalsTech Limited (ASX: MTC) announced the results of a Scoping Study for its Sturec Gold Mine in central Slovakia. The study indicated that the mine had the potential to become a low-cost gold and silver concentrate producer.

The most valuable development option was identified as an underground mining operation with a plant throughput of 2.3 Mtpa and a mine life of 9 years. The operating cost estimate was US$927/oz AuEq, promising an operating margin of over 200%. The total capital investment required for the operation was estimated at US$95.41M. The study projected undiscounted free cashflows of US$706.21M and expected the mine to produce 1,134,000 oz AuEq over the course of the 9-year mine life. The pre-tax NPV_{8%} was US$506M, with an IRR of 116.0%.

ASX: MTC

The Scoping Study was of high quality, with 78% of the mining inventory based on Measured and Indicated Resources. The After-Tax NPV(8%) was robust at US$239M, assuming a conservative gold price of US$1,550 per ounce. More detail is available in the Scoping Study ASX Announcement on 14 November 2023.

Sturec drilling results

MetalsTech announced promising assay results from both underground and surface drilling at the Sturec Mine. The drilling was aimed at extending the mineralisation of the Sturec Mineral Resource and increasing confidence in this area.

Significant findings included a continuous mineralized zone of 32.0m at 2.07g/t Au and 24.7g/t Ag from 267m in SSD-03, and 35.0m at 1.38g/t Au and 9.5g/t Ag from 86m in UGA-65. Assay results also highlighted findings from UGA-64 and UGA-62, with notable mineralized zones.

The drilling was completed, with results from SDD-04 and SSD-05 still pending at the time. These results underscored MetalsTech's commitment to advancing its resource base and the potential of the Sturec Mine.

Sauvolles Lithium Project, Canada

MetalsTech is advancing its initial field exploration programme at the Sauvolles Lithium Project in Quebec, Canada. This project, nestled in the James Bay Lithium District, is wholly owned by MTC.

Spanning approximately 300km² on the Lac Guyer Greenstone Belt, the project neighbours several other substantial lithium projects. The Sauvolles Lithium Project, which comprises 558 mineral claims, is anticipated to continue yielding further discoveries as MTC's exploration programme progresses.

The Company commenced a 12-day field exploration program at Sauvolles, with a technical team from Magnor Exploration Inc. mobilised to undertake detailed mapping, outcrop identification, rock-chip sampling and general prospecting across the highly prospective geology.

There were 11 high-priority targets identified in a hyperspectral remote sensing survey at Sauvolles which identified multiple high-priority exploration targets using known lithium and tantalum occurrences to characterise the spectral signature of potential lithium occurrences within the area. This exploration campaign focused on conducting a thorough field investigation of the high-priority targets that were generated, as well as general mapping of the prospective geology and numerous outcrops which had been identified to date.

The hyperspectral program utilised the chemical signature of the neighbouring Adina Lithium Project (held by ASX: WR1) to map the spectral endmembers to delineate potential targets across the Sauvolles project.

The study aimed to delineate spodumene anomalies that may represent spodumene-bearing pegmatites, which host lithium mineralisation. The remote spectral imagery results provided for the delineated areas to be rapidly assessed in the field to determine if any lithium minerals were present, and if so, to plan and implement exploration programs to define the extent and grade of the mineralisation.

The hyperspectral analysis was also trained on a multivariate statistical classifier to separate the LWIR signals over 71 drill holes at the Adina Lithium Project (WR1) from the rest of the region. This task combined the LWIR responses most associated with the Li-Ta occurrences in the area. A single “target” map was then generated, identifying areas that best represented the lithium endmember signatures.

ASX: MTC

The classifier was dominated by spodumene with lepidolite, elbaite and the olivine monticellite, also anomalous. Utilising dielectric constants (DC) as a method to determine resistivity indicated that approximately 97% of the drill holes at the neighbouring Adina project (WR1) had anomalously low DCs as estimated from an ALOS-1 scene.

The Adina project drill holes were also anomalous in H₂, a gas which could be measured using Sentinel-2 imagery. These gas estimates could be used to generate exploration targets undercover as the gas could percolate to the surface along cracks and fractures.

The Synthetic Aperture Radar (SAR) targets showed targets based on high resistivity. Resistivity was considered important because quartz was a large component of felsic pegmatites. The best correlated endmember with SAR resistivity was quartz so, broadly speaking, the SAR was mapping quartz pegmatites.

The SAR targets overlaid on the magnetic date of the Sauvolles project is outlined in Figure 4.

Field crews had systematically worked through the area, mapping the pegmatites and collecting samples for testing. Large mega-crustic feldspars, quartz, epidote, garnets and biotite were mapped across several of the pegmatite floats and outcrops visited. The interpretation of the pegmatite extent and mineralisation was still in its early stages.

Further desktop studies and interpretations of satellite images and historic geophysical maps to assess additional interpreted pegmatites in the area was done. A recently completed hyperspectral program identified multiple high-priority exploration targets. Multiple in-situ mega-crustic pegmatite bodies were mapped across the Sauvolles project within host amphibolite or granite.

Two significant zones of major outcrop were also mapped over more than a 6km strike length, exhibiting REE mineralisation potential. Pegmatites identified to date displayed fractionation indicators and accessory minerals often associated with rare metal pegmatites. Systematic grab sampling, rock sawing and channel sampling continued under the supervision of Magnor.

Several pegmatites had been mapped on the Sauvolles West project area by the Geological Survey of Quebec. Rock samples collected from outcrops showed strong indicator mineralogy along the Lac Guyer Greenstone Belt, including anomalous historical lithium assay results. The lithium was found within a tonalite rock type, 34km along strike west in the same stratigraphic sequence that hosted the Adina Lithium Project (WR1). The samples collected also exhibited highly anomalous pathfinder mineralisation, including tin, tantalum, caesium, and rubidium.

The Sauvolles East project area was also prioritised by the Company. Regional geological interpretation by the Quebec Department of Energy and Natural Resources (MERN) suggested that the project area was mainly underlain by the Joubert Suite, a series of intrusive tonalites and granodiorites. The Joubert Suite intrudes the adjacent greenstones of the Lac Guyer Formation, which hosts the lithium-bearing pegmatite swarms at Adina. Geological work completed by Magnor Exploration Inc. on behalf of the Company indicated potential for the contact with the greenstone belt to lie further north.

The intersection of mineralised pegmatites below the Adina Main Zone (WR1) also gave the Company hope that further pegmatite swarms might be north of Adina. This was supported by gravity targets identified north of the Adina Main Zone. Within the Lac Guyer Greenstone Belt, pegmatites were generally identified along the contact of the magnetic high and the magnetic low, and always inside the greenstone unit.

The Sauvolles project was approximately 3km from the Ridge Zone, Main Zone (Jamar) and Far East Zone that formed the Adina Project, and it bordered WR1's recently acquired Jackpot Property. It was also east and adjacent to the Apollo Lithium Project (LU7), where 17 outcrops were identified as being predominantly pegmatite hosted. The geological sequence of these pegmatite targets was identical to that at the Sauvolles project, with the same rock units extending into the western block of the Sauvolles project.

Given the globally significant results from the neighbouring Adina project (WR1) in addition to a similar geological host, the Sauvolles Lithium Project had the potential to be equally successful. The Adina pegmatites were also hosted by the greenstone belts of the La Grande sub-province. These spodumene pegmatites were hosted by mafic metavolcanic rocks near the pegmatic granite Vieux Comptoir. The Sauvolles project also featured mafic metavolcanic rocks and pegmatic granite Vieux Comptoir.

ASX: MTC

The Sauvolles project geology was made up of Mesoarchean and Neoarchean intrusions. The Sauvolles project exhibited geological and geophysical characteristics like the spodumene pegmatites in the area at Adina. The regional magnetics indicated that both the Adina and Sauvolles projects were in the greenstone belt of the La Grande sub-province.

The Vieux Comptoir pegmatic granite intrusions had displayed a high magnetic signature. It was inferred that the high magnetic signature in the tonalite could have been pegmatic granite rather than the tonalite, as suggested by the geology map. Both the Adina and Sauvolles projects shared the same medium low gravity signature.

Figure 6 outlined the pegmatite occurrences that had been identified on the neighbouring Apollo Project (LU7). It clearly indicated an extension of the same favourable geology into the western block of the Sauvolles project.

In addition to the current field exploration program at the Sauvolles project, MetalsTech had also been compiling all publicly available geological, geochemical, geophysical, and topographic data over the Sauvolles Lithium Project. Targets generated from these datasets, including those from the recently completed hyperspectral survey, were intended to provide the basis for follow-up and expanded exploration during the current 2023 exploration field season and into the 2024 field exploration season.

The company planned to employ similar methods to those used at neighbouring projects, such as visual identification of pegmatite outcrops, rock chip and soil sampling. These activities might be followed by stripping to better expose key outcrops and channel sampling.

Corporate Activity

MetalsTech Limited (MTC) engaged Minmetals Securities Co., Ltd as a strategic advisor to facilitate discussions about a potential transaction concerning its wholly-owned Sturec Gold Mine in Slovakia.

Minmetals was overseeing the process involving potential strategic parties from both China and the West, with discussions at various stages. MTC had been managing a detailed data room since early 2023, recently updated with a robust scoping study for the Sturec Gold Mine, which revealed a pre-tax NPV(8) of US$506 million and a pre-tax IRR of 116.0%.

The release of this study, along with a strengthening gold price, had spurred interest in Sturec. MTC continued to collaborate with major shareholder Chifeng Gold while engaging Minmetals. Although MTC was confident a strategic transaction would occur, no such transaction or offer document had yet been received, and there was no guarantee that any would be received or be acceptable.

Any disposal of the Sturec Gold Mine would require shareholder and ASX approvals. MTC's board believed the current share price did not fairly reflect Sturec's value.
