REVIEW OF OPERATIONS

Parag Copper-Molybdenum Project, Peru (EVR 70%)

During the reporting period the Company achieved its objective of securing a drilling permit for the high grade Parag copper-molybdenum project located in Huauru province, Peru. This followed an extensive period of community engagement, and the conclusion of multi year land access, partnership and investment agreements with the communities of Caujul and Navan.

Exploration and Next Steps

AK Drilling International have been appointed as drilling contractor and have mobilised to site in early January, after the preparation of drill pads and maintenance of roads.

The drill permit allows for drilling from 20 drill platforms, and will allow a full year of constant work, while a more comprehensive drilling programme is permitted during 2024.

The initial focus of the exploration will be to drill well understood targets on the high grade and outcropping breccias orebodies which have had a substantial amount of drilling to date, although most holes were drilled in an era before the adoption of the JORC code and need to be drilled again. Following an initial drill programme, a geophysics programme will be conducted that will be followed by drilling planned to test the deeper lying porphyry target discussed in previous announcements.

Don Enrique Copper Project, Peru (EVR 50%)

During the quarter, EVR focused its attention on obtaining a drilling permit for the Don Enrique project. An initial drilling permit for a 20 platform programme was issued, after extensive engagement with the community of Quero, with whom a multi year land access, engagement and investment agreement was signed. EVR will commence permitting a more expansive programme in mid 2024.

During the quarter, initial drilling targets were selected, for testing a very substantial chargeability high identified after an Induced Polarisation study earlier in 2023. This programme will utilise excellent quality unsealed roads, and test the anomaly which has been interpreted to dip to the west of the previously sampled and mapped hydrothermal breccia structures. The anomaly appears to widen as it dips to the -500m level, which was the extent of the depth tested.

The anomaly appears to be widening and intensifying at the north west boundary of the project’s licence.

A drilling programme is planned for later in the March quarter of 2024, to follow the initial drilling of the Parag project.

La Cienega Copper Project, Arizona (EVR 100%)

No Work was undertaken in the quarter.

Other Projects

EVR did not complete any activities at its remaining projects and has commenced a process of disposal of its non core holdings, by way of outright sale or Joint Venture.
