Aspermont Managing Director Alex Kent said:

"Aspermont had another solid quarter of consistent subscriptions growth. Our content production, technological enhancements and marketing practices are all increasing their revenue contributions to offset the adverse market conditions which have affected advertising revenues. Our increasing focus on new data and intelligence products enhances the value proposition for subscribers with our ARPU (average revenue per unit) increasing 28% last year. We expect sustained and organic subscriptions growth over the medium to long-term.

Subscriptions now exceed 50% of group revenue and our Net Retention Rate is 99%. We believe that our 30 consecutive quarters of Subscriptions Revenue growth at 15% compound, our 65% gross margins and our Average Revenue Per Unit growth of over 20%, are exceptional for any B2Bmedia company.

We continue to enhance our product range for the benefit of subscribers and thus improve our value proposition for both subscribers and shareholders. We, as Directors, do not believe the company's current market capitalization reflects the value of the subscriptions business alone, or the inorganic growth prospects of our wider business. We intend to revamp our marketing program later this year to ensure our value proposition is better understood.
