Philippa Leggat, Commented:

"Minerals that have important uses with no viable substitutes and face the potential for supply chain disruption are defined by the US Geological Survey as being critical to a nation's economic and national security."

"Critica is dedicated to discovering and developing critical mineral deposits to feed global demand for the minerals that are vital to modern life.

"Our new name, Critica Limited, reflects the Company's focus and we thank shareholders for approving this relevant future for the company.

"We're funded to advance our exciting Jupiter rare earth project while rare earths pricing is low, presenting the opportunity for a more defined value proposition when the cycle turns. We're more than halfway through the drilling program, metallurgical test work is underway, and we're targeting our maiden resource by the end of the year. There is a plethora of news to come – join our investor hub to chat to the Team along this exciting journey."
