Setting the Geological Scene

Upper Pillow Lavas

Lower Pillow Lavas

- · Geological setting and stratigraphy of Skyline is identical to that of the Troodos Ophiolite sequence in Cyprus.
- The largest of the Cyprus style deposits is Mavrovouni, which produced 17Mt at 4.5% Cu*.
- · Mineralisation is hosted in massive sulphide lenses hosted within pillow lava sequences

Sulphide Deposit

• Modern production from the Cyprus region totals 72Mt of massive sulphide ore. Historically mined since 5,000BC

Historical Mine with Untapped Potential

Historical Potential

Skyline boasts 100,000 tonnes of historical production (3-12% Cu, 7% Zn, 1-3 oz/t Ag) between 1898 and 1913, with limited modern exploration since the 1990s by Noranda (now Glencore).

Untapped Exploration Opportunity

The 110 km² land package offers excellent potential for identifying VMS-style systems identical to the Troodos Ophiolite sequence in Cyprus Previous targeting done using ineffective methods.

New targeting strategy developed with recent information

Modern Exploration Techniques

Firetail is aiming to unlock Skyline's district scale potential through a well-designed, modern exploration program utilising progressive geophysical methods
