

COMMERCIAL DISCUSSIONS UPDATE

- Dotz Nano meets with number of potential industrial consumers in the USA and Europe
- Discussions centred on use of GQDs in a variety of applications
- Further discussions to be held after samples of GQDs are supplied and tested.

Dotz Nano Limited (“Dotz Nano” or the “Company”), a nano-technology company focusing on the development, manufacture and commercialisation of graphene quantum dots (GQDs), is pleased to release the following shareholder update.

During the last several weeks, Dotz executives met with various potential industrial consumers to discuss the use of the Company's GQDs.

The meetings were positive and further discussions are to be held after samples of Dotz Nano's GQDs are supplied and analysed.

Commenting on the announcement, Dotz Nano’s CEO Dr. Moti Gross, stated: "As part of the Company’s strategy, it continues to meet with potential distributors and partners for its GQDs, in an effort to find new markets for its GQDs and increase value for shareholders. We recently met with various distributors in the USA and with various companies in Europe to discuss the use of our GQDs".

As at the date of this announcement, the Company confirms it has no agreement with any potential long term customers, but that the Company continues to discuss the future application of GQDs. The Company will make an announcement to the ASX should any material binding agreement be reached with any party the Company is in discussions with, in accordance with the Company’s continuous disclosure obligations.

Investors should monitor the Company’s ASX announcements for materially price sensitive matters.
