TikForce to provide candidate verification with leading engineering and technical recruitment consultancy

Highlights

- TikForce to provide candidate verification services to Titan Recruitment
- Candidates to be verified and onboarded via the TikForce Position Platform
- The first candidate onboarding has commenced in the trades and industrial sector
- TikForce was chosen based on simplicity, comprehensive verification and low cost

TikForce Limited (ASX: TKF, the ‘Company’) is pleased to announce that it has commenced verification services on behalf of Titan Recruitment Pty Ltd (‘Titan’). TikForce will assist Titan to rapidly identify and verify the credentials required for a position, using TikForce’s onboarding platform.

TikForce will provide Titan with direct candidate pre-qualification and onboarding, based on pre-defined position profiles within the trades division. The TikForce platform is designed to deliver real-time verification of a candidate’s credentials and identity; as such, this confirms all pre-requisites for specified roles are met by each applicant before Titan needs to vet them. Any applicants not meeting the minimum requirements of the client will not be onboarded or pre-vetted for final review and consideration, saving substantial time and money.

Titan Recruitment Director Craig Van Heurck commented:

“The efficiencies to be gained through the TikForce platform can provide Titan with bottom line savings in cost and administrative double handling. Pre-qualifying candidates well in advance of the selection process really is a game changer in the recruitment industry and TikForce has delivered a very “simple to use” system for our staff and the individual candidates.”

TikForce’s Chief Executive Officer, Kevin Baum, commented: “We are very pleased to be working with Titan to deliver credential verification and onboarding of their highly skilled candidates and workforce. It is very gratifying to know that TikForce is aligned with the Titan philosophy of
