MedAdvisor Appoints Chief Technology Officer

Global platform development expert, Dr David Chatterton, to join MedAdvisor as it prepares for next phase of growth

- Dr David Chatterton to join MedAdvisor as Chief Technology Officer to lead the development and enhancement of the platform as the Company enters its next phase of growth

- Dr Chatterton's technology experience is an ideal fit, having played a key role in the development and implementation of global collaboration platform Aconex (ASX:ACX)

- Mr Josh Swinnerton continues in the role of Founder and Chief Product Officer, working closely with the development team and helping to drive the Company's growth initiatives

- Appointment reflects the Company's ability to continue to attract high calibre talent and the acceleration of its growth

MedAdvisor Limited (ASX: MDR, the Company), Australian health technology company providing connected platforms for patients to better manage their health, is pleased to announce it has appointed Dr David Chatterton to the role of Chief Technology Officer.

Dr Chatterton brings extensive experience leading global software development operations. He has spent nearly two decades working across software and hardware development projects, and was responsible for the implementation and growth of multiple technology platforms both domestically and overseas.

His most recent role was as the Chief Information Officer for Aconex (ASX:ACX), an ASX listed collaboration platform for construction, infrastructure, and energy and resources projects (AU$830m market capitalisation). Prior to this Dr Chatterton also held the role of Chief Technology Officer (2008 – 2014) with Aconex, where he was responsible for multiple development teams in Australia and internationally. He played a key role in the global growth of the Aconex platform, which today boasts projects in over 70 countries across 70,000 organisations.

As Chief Technology Officer, Dr Chatterton will lead the ongoing enhancement of MedAdvisor's innovative health management platform ahead of its next phase of growth domestically and internationally. Founder and Chief Product Officer Mr Josh Swinnerton will continue to work closely with the platform development team, whilst playing a key role in the Company's growth initiatives, both domestically and internationally via his Board role as Executive Director.

Mr Robert Read, MedAdvisor CEO, said: "Dr Chatteron's appointment is a reflection of the high calibre of talent that MedAdvisor has been able to attract to the business due to its innovative technology platform and global opportunity to help people feel better. This is an important time for the business as we focus on accelerating our growth strategy and expanding into new markets. Dr Chatterton is an exceptional tech leader and will therefore be instrumental in ensuring our technology and infrastructure is best in class as we prepare for this next phase of growth."

Mr Josh Swinnerton, Founder and Chief Product Officer, added: "We have built a great business, and having new skills in the business is key to our next phase of growth, particularly to ensure we grow and expand our local offerings while also capitalising on exciting international opportunities. I am very pleased to welcome David to MedAdvisor. His expertise will be highly valuable adding to the foundations of the business and I am looking forward to working together."

Dr David Chatterton said, "MedAdvisor has a market leading solution for patients, pharmacies and Doctors that is well established and proven in Australia. I am really excited to make this move to MedAdvisor and once again help an Australian company build on a great foundation and opportunity, both here in Australia and internationally. I look forward to drawing upon my experience at Aconex and working with Mr Robert Read and Mr Josh Swinnerton to address many of the same challenges to scale and grow MedAdvisor and deliver a great global service to our users."
